Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

When I was knee-high to a tadpole, I had a hero whom I worshipped the way little boys worship Hopalong Cassidy or Ted Williams.

Marilyn

But my hero was a swimmer, a wonderful guy named Cliff Lumsdon. And that's why Wednesday was one of the happiest days of my life.

When we got the news that Cliff, my old training mate, had finally defeated his Tom Park jinx, in the Atlantic City swim, I was so happy for him that I couldn't help it; I sat down and cried my eyes out.

I have always called Cliff "The Chief," my own personal nickname for him.

Soon after we heard of The Chief's photo-finish victory at Atlantic City, we talked to him by telephone. He seemed a little disappointed that he had won by only two seconds, but we sure chased that idea out of his head in a hurry. We told him that he had won it and that was the important thing, no matter how close the finish was.

When coach Gus and The Chief talked about him coming out here to help me train, I guess the people in my hotel must have thought I was going berserk.

I danced like an Indian around the lobby and I couldn't stop talking.

It will be wonderful to have Cliff training with me. Both he and his wife, Joan, are very close friends of mine and Gus knows how much I like training with The Chief.

* * *

Gus and I attended a wonderful garden party yesterday for the Cerebral Palsy children. Gus and I feel it is a privilege to be able to help handicapped children and one of these days I hope to give my feelings on Gus' work with them.

* * *

Yesterday Mr. Gilmour and Mr. Fraine of Eaton's kindly brought us out a TV set for Gus and a radio for my chum, Maria, and I. He also loaned us a new-style battery radio which we can have in the boat, so that all the "rock 'n' roll" won't be in the water!

* * *

On the way home from the garden party yesterday somebody pointed out a dog swimming across the bay in front of our hotel. Somebody said: "Maybe it's going to swim the Strait" and almost without thinking I replied: "Gosh, I hope it's not a female."

Everybody howled—the first time in my life I can remember people laughing at one of my jokes. Guess I cracked a funny?

Marilyn Bell

OTHER CHAMP COMING

Winner of the gruelling 25-mile Atlantic City swim race Wednesday, Toronto's big Cliff Lumsdon has announced he will come to Victoria where he will join coach Gus Ryder and clubmate Marilyn Bell. Lumsdon, shown with his wife, Joan, will help Marilyn train and will also make strait bid.

Atlantic City Swim Winner Headed West

Cliff Lumsdon, clubmate of Marilyn Bell and winner of the 25-mile Atlantic City swim Wednesday, is coming to Victoria to assist in Marilyn's training and to prepare for a Juan de Fuca bid of his own.

Decision for the burly Toronto swimmer to come here was reached late Wednesday afternoon after he spoke by long distance telephone with coach Gus Ryder, who is in Victoria training Marilyn for her attempt on the Strait.

Ryder, who was overjoyed with Lumsden's dramatic Atlantic City victory Wednesday, wants to link his two top swimmers in training for their mutual benefit.

GRUELLING SWIM

Just how soon Lumsdon will be able to come to Victoria will depend on his condition after the extremely gruelling Atlantic City swim. He will require a period of rest to recuperate from the 26-mile swim that ended in a fantastic sprint-finish, Lumsdon defeating his old nemesis, Tom Park, by the eyelash margin of half a stroke. (See story, page 6.)

Ryder's plan call for Lumsdon to air Marilyn during her training period and then to act as a placer when she makes her attempt to become the first woman to tame the Strait. Lumsdon then would continue training for his own Strait swim.

Ryder said today, "Cliff's victory yesterday will be a great psychological boost for Marilyn. He had to beat a jinx and that will help her to conquer Juan de Fuca. Cliff's presence will help both in her training and in her actual swim."

Speaking to Lumsden by long distance telephone Wednesday, Ryder said, "Tremendous, Cliff; I'd every confidence you could do it."

Marilyn told Cliff, "I'm as tired as you are. I swam all the way with you."

On training with Lumsden again, Marilyn said, "That'll be terrific."

Before leaving Toronto for Victoria, Ryder gave Lumsdon a two-hour briefing and three sealed letters, which were to be opened at stated times. The briefing covered all the basis aspects of the swim.

Ryder quoted Park as saying he was fully confident of making it three victories in a row.

The final letter, to be opened on the day of the race, contained two cheques, each for $5,000. One was made out to Lumsdon, the other to Park. An enclosed note from Ryder said, "Cliff, it's entirely up to you as to which cheque is cashed."

Ryder chuckled as he recounted the strategy.

"I hoped it hleped—I think it did. Half a stroke in a marathon is like a photo-finish in a horse race—awfull yclose. But Cliff made it—a great achievement. You have to congratulate Park on a wonderful finish. He is a fine swimmer. I know Cliff is a better swimmer, though. He should beat Park by hlaf a mile at that distance. Oh, well, he's broken the jinx at last."

Howe Confirms Tieup May Kill Gas Deadline

OTTAWA (BUP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines' promise to build the western section of the all-Canadian gas pipeline by the end of this year will be extended to cover delays in delivery of 34-inch pipe from United States rolling mills caused by the steel strike, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons today.

"Yes," Howe said, but he added that the guaranteed delivery of pipe depended on the absence of a "force majeure," and the U.S. steel strike was such an extraordinary obstacle.

"The contract will be subject to such delays as are caused by the strike," Howe said.

Downtown Mercury Moving Up to 100

JUNIOR-GRADE HERMIT CAUGHT IN HIGHLANDS

A 13-year-old Highlands district boy who has led police on a hide-and-seek search for 10 days was back home today.

Clifford Seiden was reported missing July 10 when he failed to return to his step-parents' home on Munns road after working at a neighboring farm. Since that time he has been spotted frequently.

Early today he turned up at the home of Mr. Chappell at Pike Lake who knew the boy was wanted and held on to him.

New Prison Plan Urged by Probers

Penitentiary Terms Asked For All Sentences Over Six Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Sweeping changes in the whole field of penal corrections and paroles in Canada were proposed today to the government and Parliament by a special four-man committee.

Two of the major recommendations of the committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada are:

1. Establishment of a five-man national parole board.

2. Giving the federal government responsibility for guarding prisoners sentenced to terms of more than six months, instead of two years as at present.

Many of the committee's recommendations will require the co-operation of the provinces if they are to be implemented. The administration of justice is a provincial responsibility under the constitution.

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

Justice Minister Garson, who tabled the committee's 90-page report in the Commons, has said he plans to call the provincial attorneys-general to a conference to discuss how some of the recommendations could be implemented.

Such a conference would be held after the provinces have had a change to study the far-reaching changes suggested by the committee that was appointed in December, 1953, to study and report on the entire Canadian system of remissions.

Apart from Mr. Justice Fauteux, the committee which studied correction systems in Britain, Belgium and elsewhere was made up of: William B. Common, chief Ontario prosecutor; J. Alex Edison, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and former president of the Canadian Penal Association; and Joseph McCulley, warden of Hart House, University of Toronto, and former deputy commissioner of federal penitentiaries.

The committee also suggested amendments to the Criminal Code as it affects prison terms. For example, it proposed repeal of provisions authorizing jail terms in default of payment of fines by persons unable to pay.

This suggestion is in line with similar representations made to the government in the past by the Canadian Bar Association. The new Criminal Code, which came into effect April 1, 1955, gives judges the discretion to allow the payment of fines on the installment plan.

Perhaps the most radical change for Canada is the proposal that offenders sentenced to terms of more than six months be kept in federal penitentiaries.

Since 1869, the dividing line has been the two-year term, those serving shorter terms going to provincial jails.

At any given time, the population of Canada's nine penitentiaries and one federal training centre at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., is 5,500.

How many persons in provincial jails—the number varies between 10,000 and 11,000—would be affected by the shift in responsibility is not known. But it is conceivable the federal penitentiary population would double.

Slight Relief Promised Friday

Victoria's 12-day surge of sunburn weather was expected to reach a peak today, possibly reaching the 100 mark downtown—then taper off.

Temperature was slated to burst past Wednesday's official 86 and downtown 92 in a final weather-kick this afternoon.

Friday likely will drop to the warm 70s, according to weatherman William Mackie. He sees no rain. No measurable rain has fallen in Victoria since July 6.

Officials suspect cooler temperatures will result Friday, with some cloudy spells in the afternoon and evening. There will be more wind from the sea.

Threating to end the hot spell i sa band of clouds moving north from California, edging inot Oregon and if the same speed is maintained, appearing here in about 24 hours.

SWELL JOB

Meantime Victoria sweltered.

A man walked into the Victoria Unemployment Insurance Commission offices and applied for work as a seaman on an icebreaker.

Parks superintendent W. H. Warren said crowds at Beacon Hill Park are the biggest this year, ". . . and we're glad to have them; the park is at its best and it's the coolest place in town."

City firemen tended one grass fire at Smith's Hill reservoir. Worried residents noted pillars of smoke Wednesday evening in Central Saanich. Fire chief Victor Heal said today there was no cause for alarm—just burning off strawberry patches. It will continue for a week.

RULES TIGHTENED

No permits will be issued for fires in Sidney and provincial territories. Saanich and Esquimalt will only give permits for burning in approved incinerators. Victoria permits will be renewed daily. Oak Bay regulations are unaffected by the weather.

The hottest day, still well below the official 95.2 recorded in July, 1941, brought reports from rural areas of chickens dropping from prostration. One Prospect Lake resident claimed the mercury rose to 108.

Victoria outdid Vancouver Wednesday where an official temperature of 80 was recorded. Parksville and Nanaimo reported a high of 90. Lytton was the provincial hotspot with a top of 102.

FIRE CONCERN

Forestry officials today expressed concern for parched B.C. forests. Seventeen fires have been reported in the Vancouver forest district since Wednesday and 13 are still burning.

New outbreaks include two spot fires at Langford and six small fires in the Campbell River area.

Over 130 men are fighting a new fire at Emory Creek, near Hope on a 20-acre burn area.

Eleven of the new fires were reported on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway lines and were extinguished by patrolmen.

D. B. Taylor, chief forester of the south coast district, said conditions on Vancouver Island and the mainland were "extremely hazardous."

But he added, "So far I don't think it is necessary to close the woods."

3 B.C. Stars On Canada's Tennis Team

Three veterans of international competition and one newcomer will carry Canada's hopes to the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's grass courts next week in the Davis Cup tennis matches against the United States.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Canada's top tennis star, Don Fontana of Toronto and Paul Willey of Vancouver, members of previous Davis Cup squads, and newcomer Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver were named today to meet the U.S. team.

Rewrite Outdated Policies Premier Douglas Urges CCF

SASKATOON (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan told the provincial CCF party's annual convention Wednesday a revised statement of policy should be issued to conform with present-day conditions.

Mr. Douglas, head of the CCF government in Saskatchewan since 1944, expressed the hope that "a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions" would emerge from the Winnipeg convention in August of Canada's third largest political party.

"The manifesto was never thought of as an inspired document which laid down the truth for all time," he said. "It was a political document, analyzing the capitalist society of the 1930s and the evils which had followed in its wake.

"Some of these evils have been eradicated," he said. "Others remain and some new ones have been added. I think we need a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions."

Mr. Douglas also suggested in a keynote speech to the CCF Saskatchewan convention that the Social Credit party had been backed by "certain powerful business interests" in the June 20 Saskatchewan election because the "interests" realized "the Liberal party is a spent force in Saskatchewan politics."

Mr. Douglas said that the terms "capitalism" and "private ownership" are not synonymous.

The premier said that his statements did not indicate a departure from the past. He said he outlined a "co-operative commonwealth in his first speech in the legislature in 1944, and described it as a mixed economy in which public, private and co-operative enterprise would work together to bring the greatest good to the greatest number."

POLICE TUNICS STAY

A policeman's tunic feels heavy on a hot day when summery-dressed people like Mrs. E. Juba, 901 Fairfield Road are about. Constable Earl King hasn't chance to doff shirt and tie as old-timers on force did in days of choke neck tunic. Chief John Blackstock says coats will stay on. Men need suspenders to maintain weight of pistol, billy and handcuffs. They'd rather wear coats, he says.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

WE THANK THEE, O GOD, for the warmth of succer sunshine, for visits to mountains, seaside, camps and the homes of friends. May we find it a time of rebuilding, mentally, morally and physically, so that we may be led into a fuller life; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

The series, which seeks to give credit to the many who go quietly about their studies and leisure time activities, will appear each day. First top teen-ager appears on Page 6.

LIFE-LIKE DUMMY DEER MOVING OLYMPIC TARGET

MELBOURNE, Australia (BUP) — A full-size dummy deer, made of light wood and painted dark brown, is nearing completion for the forthcoming Olympic Games.

The deer will be mounted on a trolley and run over tracks across an area of about 75 feet. Marksmen will shoot at it from a distance of 325 feet and will have up to four seconds to aim and fire with the minimum at two seconds.

CPR Hits Out At Boxcar Boss

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—CPR solicitor Ian Sinclair Wednesday launched a blistering attack against transport controller Roy Milner charging him among other things with failing to use his powers to force prompt return of boxcars from terminal elevators.

The CPR has maintained that what was needed in the west was not more cars but a speed-up in unloading of grain cars at terminal elevators so that they could be moved back to pick up more grain.

Mr. Milner said he did everything in his power to return the cars promptly but Mr. Sinclair said he did not. The CPR solicitor said Mr. Milner could have told the terminal elevators that unless they unloaded quickly, say within three days, he would not allow any more cars to be shipped from country points. But he did not do this, Mr. Sinclair said.

In fact, Mr. Milner had approached the Lakehead grain shipping situation as a "typical terminal elevator operator." He had asked for more cars for transit and unloading than were actually required.

"What Mr. Milner forgot was that as transport controller he was no longer a terminal operator."

Mr. Milner, 64, has some 47 years of experience in the grain trade. Before his appointment to the board of grain commissioners in 1950, he headed a number of grain companies. He was a pre-war president of the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Mr. Sinclair told the Commons agriculture committee that Mr. Milner had "confessed" he was not a transportation man and had proven to the railways that when he asked for more cars he did not know where he was going to put them.

Mr. Milner, he continued had not justified his contention that the CPR had let him down badly when he called for more boxcars last spring and his supporting argument could only be described "a confession and avoidance."

"INDEFENCIBLE POSITION"

"He confessed first that his intemperate language about the officers of the CPR was completely unjustified," said Mr. Sinclair. "He confessed he was not a transportation man and that the railways knew more abou ttheir business than he did. He attempted to avoid by inconsistency."

The CPR was surprised that Mr. Milner would try to defend "what he knows is an indefencible position.

Mr. Sinclair's charges were made after Mr. Milner had left the committee chamber. They followed morning statements by Mr. Milner that his powers are not operative in a practical sense; that he believed no one in Canada could handle the controller's job; that he knew when he was licked and that was why he was getting out.

Mr. Milner, controller since the federal transport powers were first invoked in 1951, is resigning at the end of 1956, though he will remain on as a member of the board of grain commissioners.

Death March Marine Faces Victims' Photos

As the fourth day of the 31-year-old junior drill instructor's trial began, the prosecution began intoducing evidence. The photogaphs, held scarcely four feet away from McKeon's unblinking gaze, are part of that evidence.

The prosecution is attempting to send McKeon to prison for six years and three months, and to have him dishonorably discharged from the Marines for an April death march in which the six men were drowned in a training exercise to "teach them discipline."

The defence contends he is more of a hero than a sinner because, although suffering from a sprained back, he plunged into the swirling waters of Ribbon creek in an effort to save his platoon when its members went into panic.

The blue-eyed, tow-headed, career Marine from Worcester, Mass., is on trial on charges of disobeying orders, cruelty to troops, manslaughter and bringing discredit to the armed services.

FIFTH COMMANDMENT VIOLATED

Catholic Church Punishment Proposed for Road Killers

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church is considering ecclesiastical punishment for persons found guilty of having caused traffic accidents, Prof Pio Ciprotti, a canon law expert, says.

Ciprotti made the statement in an interview appearing Wednesday in L'Osserbatore Della Deomenica, a magazine published in the Vatican.

Last week the magazine appealed for "Christian conscience" to halt the rising toll of traffic deaths. It declared the Fifth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," applied equally to crimes on the highways.

Ciprotti said ecclesiastical punishments could be handed drivers who avoid helping persons they injured, hide their identities, or who do not pay for damages they have caused. It could be applied to motorists driving without a licence or while intoxicated, he added.

Ciprotti declared that in the "gravest cases, such as having caused the death of a person," one could consider an interdiction from entering churches or a "personal interdiction." This is a prohibition to receive church sacraments amounting to virtual excommunication.

Defence Minister Reveals Plans To Expand Air, Naval Strength

From Times News Service

At a time when other Western nations seem to be moving toward smaller armed forces, Canada is heading in the opposite direction.

Defence Minister Campney said Wednesday in the resumed defence debate that in light of the plan to form three more CF-100 jet interceptor squadrons for home defence, "a careful reappraisal of the air force manpower position is being made."

At the same time, Mr. Campney said he has never subscribed "to the nonsense which has been talked about abolishing ground forces; our army undoubtedly has an essential role to carry out and our efforts are being directed now to seeing that it will be in the best possible shape for carrying out its role."

MAY RAISE CEILING

Mr. Campney said there will be "'some" increase in RCAF strength this year but still within the air force's manpower ceiling of 51,000. Outside the Commons, officials indicated that the ceiling may have to be raised later to permit additional personnel for the new squadrons, which will raise home defence strength to 12 squadrons, and for helping to man the mid-Canada radar warning line.

Mr. Campney said there will be a "slight" increase in naval strength within its ceiling of 20,000. The navy now is acquiring new destroyers. Both the RCAF and navy are just slightly below their authorized manpower ceilings.

The minister said there may be a "small" decrease in army strength this year. The army now is about 2,000 below its 49,000-man ceiling.

Over-all, therefore, Canada's armed forces may increase slightly. Total authorized strength is 120,000 and the forces now number about 117,000.

There is no present plan here to reduce Canadian forces in Europe which comprise an infantry brigade group and a 12-squadron air division of Sabre jet fighters.

Canada's program of training airmen for NATO allies will end at the start of 1958 except for continued aid to three smaller countries, Mr. Campney said.

"Most of the NATO countries have built up their air crew requirements to the desired level," he said. "They have developed their own training facilities to the point where they can look after their own needs."

He did not identify the three countries, but said Canada will work out some further method of continuing assistance to them.

NEUTRALISTS CONFER—Egypt's Nasser (right) and Yugoslavia's Tito conferred for 5½ hours Wednesday with the world's other advocate of neutralism, India's Nehru. But the "summit talks" on the Adriatic island of Brioni, which are continuing today, reached no decisions, according to Nehru. The Egyptian and Yugoslav leaders were photographed at Belgrade inspecting a guard of honor.

Tale of Whisky-Filled Coffin Told Massey on Cariboo Visit

BARKERVILLE, B.C. (CP)—Standing beside a small grave, Governor-General Massey was told Wednesday how Cariboo Cameron spent four years getting the body of his wife and her whisky-filled coffin to Glengarry County.

Cariboo Cameron brought his bride here from Cornwall, Ont., during the gold rush of the 1860s. She wasn't able to stand up to the rigors of this wild frontier, and died of typhoid in the winter of 1868.

Her dying wish was that she be buried in Glengarry County.

Cariboo made a metal casket, put the body of his wife in it and filled it with whisky. Then began the long journey to the east.

It started by hand sleigh, then by pack train, then by ship to Victoria. Other trips carried Cariboo and his casket round the tip of South America and finally to New York.

A New York newspaper became suspicious of Cameron coming all the way from the gold rush country with a 450-pound coffin, and a story was written calling Cariboo a fraud and gold smuggler.

An investigation followed and Cariboo drilled a hole in the casket. Out flowed the whisky. "Isn't that proof of the truth of my story?" asked Cariboo.

But the authorities said no. The coffin was opened and the body of Mrs. Cameron was found perfectly preserved.

2 Give Up In Channel

ST. MARGARET'S BAY, Eng. (AP)—Beth Wild, a South African girl, gave up her bid to swim the English Channel today when she was only five miles from Calais, France, her goal.

Intense cold and rough seas defeated the 22-year-old typist. She left St. Margaret's Bay Wednesday and was in the water more than 13½ hours.

Shortly before Beth gave up, Wilfred Westley, 40-year-old Briton, went into the water off Cap Gris Nez, France, in another attempt to conquer the channel, but quit after 3 hours and 11 minutes swimming.

Mr. Bennett Is Annoyed

FOR SOME REASON OF HIS own—perhaps the anxieties of an early election—Mr. Bennett seems to be in a restive humor. And as usual, he blames the press.

He is annoyed with the press on two counts. First, he says, the press is always talking about an election and thus creating political instability. Second, the press has misrepresented his latest financial statements and confused the public.

As to his first complaint, if there is any political instability in British Columbia these days only Mr. Bennett has created it.

He seldom passes a single week without an outright political speech, interlaced with continual newspaper interviews extolling the work of his government. His "non - political" tours all over the province are filled with Social Credit politics. Even when he addresses a ceremonial luncheon meeting, to welcome the establishment of an insurance company in Vancouver, he cannot resist the temptation to depart from his prepared text and deliver an oblique warning to financial institutions, Social Credit's supposed enemies.

So far as we are aware, no one but Mr. Bennett is interested in an early election and only the Social Credit party is actively preparing for it. No public issue requires an election this year. No government has any right to call an election and seek a public vote of confidence until grav charges against its integrity have been settled one way or another in the courts. If any political instability exists it is the result of the Sommers case, not of anything said in the press. The press, in fact, as Mr. Bennett well knows, is prevented by the rules of court from discussing the most serious business before the public.

Mr. Bennett is also annoyed because the press quoted him, quite accurately, we believe, as saying that his government had accumulated a large revenue surplus recently. This announcement caused some taxpayers to suggest that if Mr. Bennett had so much money to spare he might reduce taxes. He replies that there is no room for tax reductions because he is using his surplus to reduce the heavy debts of his predecessors. The press, Mr. Bennett evidently feels, should have explained this sound debt reduction to its readers.

The fact, of course, is that Mr. Bennett has been reducing debt slightly with one hand and increasing it massively with the other.

His surplus may be used, and wisely, to reduce the direct debt, as it appears under Mr. Bennett's system of bookkeeping. But at the same time Mr. Bennett is borrowing huge amounts of new money on behalf of various public bodies, with a government guarantee, and denying that this is debt.

It is debt, however, by any bookkeeping system except Mr. Bennett's, since all the taxpayers are responsible for its interest charges and its final repayment. They will provide all the necessary funds in one way or another.

It is difficult to understand why Mr. Bennett should be in such a petulant humor in this fine summer season when, as he says, everything is going so well under what he calls the best government in our history. What can he be expecting in the autumn?

The Cooing Dove

DOUBTLESS UNDER RUSSIAN tutelage, the Communist Government of China has changed, ostensibly, from a policy of force to a policy of seduction in the case of Formosa.

Mr. Chou En-lai was breathing fire and threatening an immediate invasion of Mr. Chiang Kai-shek's isolated island until a few months ago. Now he appears as a cooing dove of peace. He used to denounce the Nationalists of Formosa as imperialists and traitors. Now they are good citizens of China who have made an unfortunate mistake but are welcome home.

The light is burning for them in the window of Peiping. They can freely visit the mainland, assured of police protection. When Formosa is joined to the political body of China the Nationalist leaders will be rewarded with "appropriate jobs" instead of firing squads.

Mr. Chou may seem to be humiliating himself in this reversal but he knows what he is doing. He could not have captured Formosa by force without provoking a major war with the United States, quite probably an atomic world war. That bluff being called, he suddenly discovers the virtues of peaceful co-existence which may be far more dangerous than Communist threats to the Nationalists. For Chiang Kai-shek now faces an indefinite isolation almost certain to be fatal to him in the end.

On the one hand, how can the Nationalist soldiers and the civilians of Formosa be expected to remain permanently in arms when there is no danger of attack and when their old mainland home must continue to attract them? On the other, how long can the United States maintain the fiction that the handful of Nationalist officials in Formosa, never elected by the Chinese people, are the true Government of China and entitled to speak for it in the United Nations? Not very long.

Mr. Chou, a Marxist, is applying to Formosa the dictum applied by Marx to the state. He is waiting for the Nationalist junta to wither away. He can wait for years if necessary without inconvenience while the life of his adversaries runs out.

Choosing the Wrong Park?

THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNment has not yet formally agreed to take over Goldstream Park. Lands and Forests Minister Williston has indicated his personal approval of the plan and has implied that something definite may be done at the beginning of next year.

If action follows along that line, development may be resumed where former mayor Claude Harrison blocked it with conditions unacceptable to the Government. Certainly the improvement of the region as an outdoor recreation area is to be desired.

But while informal negotiations have been proceeding on that area, the Government has indicated that it is not interested in Thetis Lake Park.

To many it will seem that the Government has chosen the wrong park for development—if recreational facilities are to be fully exploited.

t Thetis, a varied terrain, lakes and areas for campsites offer far more for the majority of citizens in this community. Goldstream has a relatively limited potential. Among other things, it is heavily shaded except on sunny afternoons.

Perhaps it is not yet too late for the Government to reconsider the whole question, determine which development would provide the greatest good for the greatest number and act accordingly.

Victorians would like both parks. If they can have only one or the other at provincial expense, they would, it seems, benefit more from work at Thetis.

Press Bill in the Lords

THE THEORETICAL DESCENDents of the barons who wrung freedoms from King John and gave the world a classic on liberty have an interesting document before them.

It is a bill submitted to the House of Lords by the Earl of Selborne to place controls upon the press.

This may be merely another touch of the Lords' midsummer madness. It is inconceivable that the proposal will ever become law — not merely because its sponsor would fix a pattern for all news treatment in the mold of one newspaper, The Times.

Britain, of all countries, is least likely to muzzle the press.

But if the bill has little hope of becoming law, it does point up a growing resentment to the excesses of some newspapers in Britain—where are published some of the best and some of the worst.

The Earl of Selborne, described as a 69-year-old leading layman of the Church of England, objects to unnecessary intrusion on the privacy of the Queen's subjects, disrepect or discourtesy to any member of the royal family, publication of pictures of persons attending a religious service without the presiding minister's permission and a number of other procedures which violate good taste.

The British press can defend itself adequately and British people will countenance no interference with the liberty of newspapers honestly and properly carrying news and comment —whether it be to the liking of the Earl of Selborne or not.

But the incident should stimulate thought in certain sections of the British press. There is good reason for criticism there, as elsewhere, over some methods of news handling. Perhaps, rather than an indignant rebuttal to the Selborne argument, newspapers might benefit from some self-analysis and self-discipline.

The Living Richard

THE bloody legend of "Richard III," as produced by Sir Laurence Olivier, is much more than a great movie, not quite as good, I think, as his "Henry V" or his "Hamlet" but beyond praise. It is, above all, a final vindication of Shakespeare, if he needed it, as the playwright of the common man.

Hutchison

Like us in our time, our children are taught to regard Shakespeare as a highbrow poet, as Olympian, remote and almost holy, his plays as an exercise of the intellect beyond the grasp of ordinary men. When a master of stagecraft like Olivier takes hold of them, those plays, nearly three hundred and fifty years old and apparently worn out by repetition, suddenly look fresher than the latest super-colossal from Hollywood and more modern (and even better shaped) than Miss Marilyn Monroe.

THIS is exactly what Shakespeare intended. He never wrote for the highbrows but always for the mob. Many of the contemporary highbrows deplored his vulgarity but the mob loved it and the mob of those times, most of it illiterate, found his poetry as easy to understand as the argot of the London streets—the same lines that puzzle the schoolboy of our time and set the scholars wrangling.

As Olivier has shown in his three Shakesperian movies, the plays were written as plays and only incidentally as poems. They were not intended to be read—Shakespeare did not even bother to preserve his manuscripts—but to be seen, and they depend very largely on the talent of the producer and the actors.

IF SHAKESPEARE were alive today he would doubtless agree that his plays have never been so well performed, or so closely to his intentions, as in the work of Olivier simply because the movies can do things impossible on the stage.

Better actors have played Richard and often have interpreted that role quite differently. No producer has approached Olivier's total effect because he has grasped the ultimate possibilities of a new medium.

The spectacle in "Richard III," the scenery, costumes and the battle scenes (which seemed to me much too long and anti-climacteric) are stupendous in their way but are the least part of Olivier's success. Much more interesting is his ability to pull Shakespeare's poetry out of the clouds and transmute it into speech as easily understood as the talk of a modern street corner.

When read in print these lines are often obscure, unwieldy and rather too precious. When pronounced by good actors, in the right surroundings they are understood by the most ignorant audience.

It is for this reason mainly, I imagine, that Shakespeare would be well pleased with Olivier. For Shakespeare was always aiming at the ignorant, at the groundlings who provided his bread and butter and he would be horrified to hear that he is now the darling of the educated and generally a pain in the neck to the schoolboy.

He was himself a school boy who had suffered much from the folly of educationists. If you will read "Shakespeare of London" by Marchette Chute, you will find that Shakespeare, like many a modern child, succeeded in life despite his training in school.

HE WAS trained thoroughly enough, by the standards of those days, bent over a desk at Stratford from seven in the morning to five in the afternoon, six days a week throughout the year, with no summer holidays.

If he had gone on to Oxford most likely his genius would have been ruined by higher education. Being an ignorant man and a rebel against both Latin and the established conventions of the theatre, he turned to the common speech of England and, in the days when no dictionary had yet been written, proceeded to make the English language march. And when he could find no word to suit him, he invented a new one, not to impress the intellectuals but to please the groundlings who paid their admission fee of one penny and made the playwright rich.

AS MARCHETTE CHUTE remarks, "there was still some doubt among thoughtful men whether it was quite respectful to the language to use it in so light-hearted a fashion. Geo. Puttenham apologized for using such 'strange and unaccustomed' new words as idiom, method, impression, numerous, penetrate and savage. Gabriel Harvey was scolded for using such abnormalities as theory, jovial and negotiation; and Ben Jonson, who could never forget his classical education, was horrified by a fellow playwright who used such outlandish words as damp, clumsy, strenuous and puffy."

TO SUCH critics Shakespeare's free-wheeling style must have appeared scandalous. But it lasted. It is as lively, understandable and moving on today's movie screen as it was on the bare boards of the Globe. And when the public of our time finds itself enjoying Shakespeare instead of studying him we may claim to be almost as intelligent as the London mob of Elizabethan times.

Fogs of Neutrality

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

MR. DULLES on neutralism has been behaving for all the world like the man who went into a dark room looking for a black cat that wasn't there.

The black cat that Mr. Dulles has been looking for is a universal all-purpose definition of neutrality which will announce the exact temperature of the United States official moral disapproval. He seems to feel that it is somehow the business of the United States, and of himself as Secretary of State, to pronounce a wholesale blanket verdict on all countries which do not belong to NATO, SEATO or METO, on countries as diverse as India and Ireland, as Sweden and Egypt, as Switzerland and Yugoslavia. Because this cannot be done, he has within the past month or so found it necessary to contradict the President, to contradict the Vice-President who had contradicted the President, and to contradict himself.

Lippmann

Such a thing ought not to happen in a well conducted government. For it betrays a confusion of mind which is more damaging than the attacks of our adversaries. On June 9 at Ames, Iowa, Mr. Dulles declared that, except under very exceptional circumstances, the principle of neutrality is obsolete, short-sighted, and immoral. This blanket verdict that they are all immoral irritated the non-joiners who are a multitude in South Asia, the Middle East and Europe.

Contradictions

The trouble was compounded by Vice-President Nixon's howler in attacking Indian policy when he was in Pakistan. So Mr. Dulles had to go back into the dark room looking for his black cat. Last week, at his press conference he emerged with a new version of the Dulles doctrine. As of July 11 countries belonging to the U.N. (which includes all countries, excepting only Switzerland, that are able to get themselves admitted) are no longer immoral neutrals, and Switzerland is not an immoral neutral because it has been neutral for so long a time.

This reduces to absurdity the attempt to generalize about the morality of neutrals. For having started with a blanket disapproval, Mr. Dulles has ended with another generalization which leaves him with no neutrals to disapprove of. The official doctrine at the moment is that neutrality is immoral but that there are no neutrals who are immoral.

Now that we have arrived at this thundering anti-climax, the question is how did we become entangled in so stultifying and damaging an argument? This is the morning after, and we must try to remember what touched off last night's talking match.

Great Change

At the moment of it there is a truly perplexing and difficult situation. The basic assumption of the cold war, that the world is divided into two camps, has been overtaken by the course of events, and a great change has come upon the world situation. Among the developments which have caused this changes the most influential have been the attainment of nuclear parity by the Soviet Union, the success of the forced industrialization of the Soviet Union followed by the reaction against Stalinism and the consolidation of the Red regime in China. These developments in their combined effect have worked for neutralism, have worked against the idea that nations which have no nuclear weapons can find security by joining one or the other of the two military coalitions.

In the face of this new situation there have arisen in Washington two schools of thought. The one, represented by Sen. Knowland, would like to refuse American aid to any country which does not join one of our military alliances. The other, which has had encouragement from the President himself, would recognize that the weak and under-developed countries may have good reason for not joining military alliances, and would nevertheless give them economic aid.

Neither school of thought has as yet produced a policy which can be applied indiscriminately to all the neutrals. No one will ever produce such a policy. In the reality of things the question of how to treat Tito's Yugoslavia is distinct and specifically different from the question of how to treat Nasser's Egypt. In the Asian sub-continent we have a vital interest in being friends both with India and with Pakistan. But it is impossible to formulate a generalized policy which is equally good for both.

Root of Trouble

The root of the trouble about defining neutrals has been the practice, unfortunately rather common in our inexperienced diplomacy, of trying to deal with specific and diverse and hard problems by sweeping them under the rug of a moral generalization. This is a political vice which can be, and frequently has been, ruinous to an effective and realistic and genuinely moral policy. It is the business of the statesmen to work out an Egyptian policy, and a Yugoslav policy, and an Indian policy, and a Swedish policy and an Irish policy, and to refrain from upsetting the applecart by pronouncing moral judgment on "neutrals" as such and in the abstract.

There are people who, when they hear an official use of the word "moral," feel that morality is being promoted and defended. It may not be so. Nobody thinks it to be moral and high-minded for a man to issue blanket moral judgment on his fellow men. He is likely to get himself thoroughly distrusted and disliked. For each of us expects to be treated as an individual person, not as part of a generalized lump.

So it is among the nations. They are proud, as we are proud, and they resent, as we would resent, being put publicly on trial to be judged for their moral character. They resent it all the more when the judgment is generalized and when they are treated as faceless objects, having no distinct individuality of their own.

As Our Readers See It

Misrepresentation

The movie Bhowani Junction currently showing at the Royal Theatre is the worst type of distortion of truth, facts, reality, and misrepresentation of India and Sikhism ever presented to the people of Victoria.

Firstly, the story reflects either the anti-Indian and anti-Sikh sentiment of its writer, or complete ignorance. Secondly, it is evident that MGM has joined hands with Mr. Dulles & Co. to play down India. Thirdly, since such movies can only be produced in Asia of American influence, the government of Pakistan, that rendered so much assistance to the producers, also expressed its hatred of India's beloved Congress party in general and Sikhism in particular.

In the present days of international troubles, instead of bringing about harmony, understanding and amity among nations, peoples, religions, races and cultures, such films do the very opposite.

'Outraged'

"Outraged" in your issue of July 17 feels like kicking over the traces and who can blame him?

If it is of any comfort to him the embryo of a peoples' movement in Britain has started with a bang.

It is known as "The Peoples' League for the Defence of Freedom." In three months the support has been terrific. Full page ads have appeared in most of the important English newspapers, including the Daily Mail of June 21, at a cost of thousands of pounds—all subscribed over a short period by the ordinary man on the street.

The league has decided to make itself effective politically to curb the many evils of inflation, irresponsible trade union activity and government bureaucracy gone wild. After all, the ordinary man and woman is in the majority but they are not organized. The Peoples' League is apparently the answer. Perpetual membership costs 6d a week with an ingenious method of easy collection and they publish a "weekly" free to members to keep all in touch with progress.

Something of the kind is needed in Canada. There are too many people who cannot afford the price of a haircut, etc., too many people who are suffering silently from inflationary exploitation brought on by ridiculously high wages, and too many left by the wayside to suffer by those who think only of themselves and what they can grab in a "devil take the hindmost" attitude.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE.

Start of Popular Vote

According to Macaulay's History of England, before our great republican system was brought forward as a government by election, one of the kings found himself in a pinch with rogues and rebellion all around.

As head of the established church he appealed to the bishops for assistance, and they declined all help except by prayer. The king's claim of supremacy above all laws and above all property rights and persons was in dispute. He was able to command obedience from armed guards and magistrates, and from others holding well-paid jobs or rich lands. With the king's favor, men could become enviable overnight. Deprived of all favor many got a foretaste of hell.

The bishops and other church leaders considered their own authority under God was a sufficient anchor, but they disagreed over many trifles, and prayers did not save the king, nor did his supporters in Ireland or France succeed with their combined efforts. Government by popular vote and parliaments, however, did get a start in England, and may lead to a world order.

PHILIP HOLLOWAY.

Comparison in 'Terrors'

What Russia's ultimate aims are, none of us can be sure, but it should be easy for genuine historians to believe Mr. Khrushchev's statement that no opposition to Stalin's regime dared raise its head.

Russia, bleeding terribly and menaced by indignant outsiders, was in the same position as France of long ago, allowing for differences ethnic and epochal, etc., and that a mesmeric fog of suspicion and fear and terror enveloped in political silence should arise in Russia was the likeliest thing on the cards.

Old France, like Russia, had millions of illiterate peasants and was totally inexperienced in democratic processes and France's reign of terror ended as suddenly when Robespierre petered out, as did Russian terror at Stalin's death.

Non-historians many find it difficult to realize to what an extent suspicion can arise in a nation under stress.

Danton, noted for being "deficient in suspicion" tried to stop France's reign of terror and lost his head in consequence.

Soon after, some of France's legislators found their own names on Robespierre's secret guilliotine list, and formed a concerted plan to denounce His Nibs before he had a chance to get to work at them. Their plan succeeded.

But the point is, that when Robespierre's decapitation suddenly ended the Terror, these legislators were as much astonished as was the rest of France.

So may the Russians of today be astonished.

FRUITFUL ACRES

Pre-war we thought that a yield of thirty hundredweight of wheat per acre was very good farming, but now it is a commonplace to have yields of forty or more per acre in Britain.

A WOMAN'S OUTLOOK

By RUTH ENKE

'O Canada'

I KNOW that this will likely get me into trouble. Especially here in Victoria. But I want to put down in black and white, as honestly as I can, just how I feel when I hear "God Save the Queen" and "O Canada" played on public occasions and played well.

I want to put it down, not because it's my reaction, but because I fancy it's the reaction of many Canadians who, like me, were born in this country but have parents who came from Britain.

Ruth

When I hear "God Save the Queen," I have virtually no emotional reaction. I think with personal affection and respect of Queen Elizabeth, and of her deeply-ingrained sense of duty. I think with a certain sense of guilt about how she is being worked to death. But I am not stirred in any way at all.

* * *

And yet I have a tremendous respect for Britain, and for the code that's often summed up as "Old School Tie." I'd be the first to acknowledge Canada's debt to Britain. I know—though hazily perhaps—what we owe to British law and justice, and to British parliamentary institutions. I much prefer the British humor of understatement to the American one of exaggeration. Though I'll laugh with the rest of them about "It isn't cricket, old chap," I yield to no one in my admiration of the British sense of fair play.

Ther are parts of Britain that I know well and love. When, as a girl, I lived in Belgium for several years, I always had a feeling of relief when we landed at Dover, and I saw the English porters and trains again, and travelled through lovely Kent up to London. I "belonged" in England as I never did in Belgium.

In spite of this, "God Save the Queen" leaves me rather cold. And this bothers my conscience just a little.

* * *

"O Canada" does not leave me cold. If it's well played, it can touch me so deeply that, for two pins, I'd burst into tears. (And that's un-British, if you like!)

It's a peculiar feeling that has nothing of militant flag-wagging in it. I think it's compounded mostly of quiet pride and a certain sadness. Pride because, somehow, and in spite of immense difficulties, we are at last a nation. And sadness, because we are a nation of immigrants, and for thousands of them this has often been a hard, sad land. Hard physically sometimes, and hard emotionally because it's seldom easy for adult immigrants to leave the land of their birth and grow into the ways of a new country. It's not easy, either, to see your children growing up in a different pattern, and to know that their roots are different from your roots.

I didn't always feel like this. It's happened in the last 10 years. For me, it happened really in 1951 when I came back from a heavenly three months in Europe. I saw my country then with new eyes, and was quite appalled by its size, its restlessness, its crudity and materialism. I felt that it had a spirit—a youthful, eager, striving lusty spirit. But absolutely no soul at all.

After this immediate reaction was over, I began to want to learn all I could about this country in which I was born, and of which I knew so little.

* * *

I became extremely conscious of the fact that I'm a Canadian, and intensely interested in what makes me and other Canadians tick.

Which is badly expressed, I know. But at least it's honest. And the reason that I blab it out today is that I've just read "Canada: A Frustrated Nation" by J. B. Priestley. (In the June 7 issue of "The Listener.")

The bit that caught my eye especially was: "They (Canadians) feel neither American nor British but Canadian. They are deeply aware of what I can only call their Canadianness. But—and this is an important but—not only do they find it difficult to express this national sense of being to the outside world, they find it almost equally difficult to express it to themselves."

Neatly put, Mr. Priestley!

MOTHER DOESN'T KNOW BEST, SAYS CHILD EXPERT

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. W. E. Blatz, director of child study at the University of Toronto, says mother doesn't know best and every child has a mind of its own and can think for itself.

Lecturing at the University of British Columbia summer course here Wednesday, Dr. Blatz said "a child of two is old enough to decide what he wants to eat."

"At eight or nine," he said, "a child should be able to choose his friends and hobbies. At 10 he should have the freedom to spend his allowance in his own way."

Missionaries Accused Of Abetting Cold War

NAGPUR, India (Reuters)—Christian missionaries in central India were accused Wednesday of taking part in the cold war and spreading "vile propaganda against the religion of the majority."

The accusation came in a report published by a six-member committee of inquiry set up by the state of Madhya Pradesh to inquire into missionary activities. Dr. M. B. Nyogi, former chief justice of the Nagpur High Court, president over the committee.

The committee recommended that the 402 foreign missionaries should be withdrawn from Madhya Pradesh state as a danger to Indian security. It also recommended their property be transferred to national churches or holding bodies or to an international holding body.

The committee suggested an amendment to the Indian constitution, first to make clear that the right to carry on missionary work was the right of citizens of India only; and secondly that such rights did not include conversion brought about by "force, fraud or illicit means."

There are about 5,000 Protestant and Roman Catholic missionaries in India. The great majority come from the United States, Britain and Commonwealth countries.

No Flowers? Replant Your Peonies, Iris

The peonies had no flowers. They had not flowered for two years and their foliage was thin and spindly.

Jack

The soil was good; fertilizing had been properly done; the plants had been soaked after their late summer rest period. Why were there no flowers?

A similar complaint about German, or bearded, iris. These made a fair amount of foliage but no flower buds. This week the Madonna lily (Lilium candidum) is the puzzle. Flowered well until three years ago. Bulbs were dug and replanted. No flowers since.

We decided to look at the peony tubers and found them six inches below the surface. The rhizomes of the bearded iris were four inches deep. The lily bulbs had been treated like those which root from their stems and were down eight inches.

The German iris, the peony, and the Madonna lily are three plants which refuse to flower if planted deeply, and the only cure is to dig and replant. The iris should be done right away, the Madonna lily in August after its normal flowering time has ended, and the peonies in late August to mid-September.

Replant the iris with the rhizome on a mound of soil and the roots down each side. Keep the rhizomes half in and half out of the soil like a duck on water.

The Madonna bulbs are base rooting and the tips should be about two inches below soil level, and the same applies to the eyes on the peony tubers.

Socreds Forced CCF To Overspend in Sask.

SASKATOON (CP)—The CCF went over its campaign budget to fight "probably the toughest battle" it ever faced before the June 20 election the party won in Saskatchewan, a CCF leader said Wednesday.

Dr. Carlyle King, provincial president of the Socialist party, said the $36,000 campaign budget laid down by the provinical council had been exceeded during the campaign.

He did not say by how much.

He said the campaign indicates that capitalism is a "very rough dog"

"THE MILKY WAY"

By MAURICE HUMBER

I'm gonna try & do a soft selling job on this refrigerator, & even if you don't need one, it's an interesting story. Mr. Gibson, who owns the Gibson factory in the eastern States, is quite a boy. After his designers had created what they thot was the perfect refrigerator, they kept it under wraps until he returned from abroad. Came the big day for unveiling. He opened the door . . . then watched it shut by itself . . . he liked that. He opened it again . . . and he thot the new Cool Cameo Cream finish satisfying . . . he pulled down the freezer door, & he knew that would do . . . it would hold 40 lbs. He examined the Nylon hinges and door latch and nodded his approval. He also gave the nod to the glamor gold on the shelves, & he liked the bigger look-thru crisper. Then he slammed the door, & said "Junk The Whole Thing". The designers & engineers were flabergasted, but sed . . . "Junk it Mr. Gibson? ? ? surely . . ." "Y-E-S-", he bellowed, "get rid of it . . . chuck it out . . . it won't sell . . . these are the days of hard competition. I want you to GET RID OF ALL THOSE MILK BOTTLES . . . get 'em outa there . . . they take up all the space". Back to their drawing boards crept the poor souls . . . but they didn't quit . . . they phoned their wives that they wouldn't be home for supper, & they didn't know WHEN they'd be home. If you'd like to see just HOW they got rid of the milk bottles (& still kept 'em) drop in our warehouse eh? They also solved the problem of how to get this big 10 cu. ft. job in only 24 inches of space. We have solved the problem of how to give you what Mr. Gibson wanted . . . the lowest price in . . .

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Assets of Scotland

LONDON—Since, as you surely know, every tenth person in Canada is of Scottish origin, presumably quite a few of you would be interested in what one Alastair Hetherington has been saying in a special Scottish number of the Spectator.

He poses the question: "How many of us expatriates would go back to work in Scotland if we had the chance?" And he does not feel that a high proportion would, because "the great draw of England, as of farther lands, is that it is bigger, pays better and offers greater scope."

Reyburn

Being a newspaperman, he feels that words written in Fleet street are more likely to have an influence towards the peace and prosperity of our times (plus being far more highly paid words) than those written off Buchanan street or behind Waverley.

* * *

"So it must be with some other professions," he says. "In reverse of the Psalmist's words, it may be easier to sing the Lord's song in a strange land."

But having passed up his native Scotland for wider, richer fields does not prevent Hetherington from getting nostalgic about the place. "In exile one appreciates more than ever the great advantages of Scotland. Sometimes one wonders, perhaps with a touch of envy, whether the Scots at home see the assets of their country as clearly as do those who have gone away."

The assets he lists include such things as compactness. The face that its population is concentrated in the narrow central belt means that people are interested in the country as a whole and do not have provincial, localized outlook of the English.

* * *

Another asset he mentions is a breadth of outlook and range of vision which the English often lack. He feels that this is partly because a Scotsman may physically see his country from side to side—from the Firth of Clyde to the Firth of Forth.

One of Scotland's greatest assets, which he feels is not always recognized so clearly at home as abroad, is the possession of a national church. "The Church of Scotland is that much more than the Church of England. Not only in numbers proportionate to the whole people, but also through the democracy of its government. In Assembly Week, when men and women from all the presbyteries in Scotland are gathered in Edinburgh to discuss their church and nation they sit with church and laity together, not separate. No act of parliament lays down a liturgy or prohibits freedom of worship."

A breadth of outlook, a democratic church and a sturdy background of educated minds —these, according to expatriate Hetherington, are the great Scottish assets.

Cyclist's Death Ruled Accident By Inquest Jury

A coroner's jury deliberated nearly an hour Wednesday to arrive at a verdict of "accidental" in an inquest inquiring into the death Saturday of Reginald F. Minhinnick, 2926 Fifth, who was injured in a car-bicycle collision July 6.

The accident victim, taken to hospital with a fractured skull, received an operation and appeared to be recovering when he suffered a relapse and died.

The car was driven at the intersection of Bay and Blanshard by Roderick J. Graff, 1613 Belmont, when it collided with the 68-year-old cyclist.

St. Joseph's Hospital physicians Dr. Terrence Rutherford and Dr. D. B. Roxburgh gave medical evidence.

Tops In Teens

A summertime feature, Tops in Teens, will seek to focus the spotlight on Victoria and district teenagers who are representative of the great majority of our fine young people.

Queen's Scout 'Outstanding'

ERNIE QUAN is 15, and enters Grade 10 at Victoria High School in September. He is an industrious student and has a flare for art. In school hours Ernie is just another nice teenager. But Friday nights he appears as an outstanding example of youthful proficiency. That is Scout night.

Ernie is a patrol leader and Queen's Scout in the Victoria Chinese troop, holder of the red cord, a cherished award given when a Scout wins 12 proficiency badges.

* * *

SCOUTMASTER FREEMAN King says of Ernie, "He is one of the most outstanding Scouts I have ever encountered in 48 years of Scouting. He is reliable and trustworthy on any job and supeior in pioneering and pathfinding skills."

In achieving his Queen Scout rank Ernie passed rigorous tests in ambulance work; qualfied as an interpreter, as a cyclist and a pathfinder.

* * *

IN THE LATTER TEST HE was required to draw a map of the area within a half-mile radius of the troop's downtown headquarters. It had to be drawn to scale and include every detail, including even fire hydrants.

In presenting his map, Ernie had also to report accurately on the industry, transportation and business conducted in the area.

Ernie's parol is famed among Victoria Scouts for camping abilities. He is the example the other boys aim to follow.

Succeeding him as principal medical officer of HMCS Stadacona, naval barracks at Halifax, will be Surgeon Commander Richard A. G. Lane, Toronto, now at the RCN hospital in Halifax.

CCFer Lauds 'Democracy' Of Russia

LONDON (Reuters) — William Irwin, Alberta president of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation who is now visiting the Soviet Union at the head of a group of Canadian socialists, was quoted by the Soviet news agency Tass Wednesday as having told one of its correspondents in Kiev:

"We have been greatly impressed by the way in which you have implemented the principles of democracy in your local government authorities, in state farms and in collective farms."

"We had the honor of being present at the opening of the session of the Supreme Soviet of the USSR and we noted its democratic nature which is matched by few parliaments in other democratic countries."

"Considering your natural resources, the achievements of your science and the love for hard work of your people, a time will come before long, provided there is peace, when your living standards will be the highest in the world."

Drop Drug Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The district attorney's office Wednesday declined to issue a complaint against Bobby Driscoll, screen juvenile arrested a week ago on suspicion of possessing narcotics. There is insufficient evidence for a charge, a spokesman said. Driscoll, 19, denied knowledge of marijuana police said was found in the car of a friend.

THESE GAY OLD DOGS COUNTY HOME PROBLEM

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—The county home for the aged board was told Tuesday that five or six "younger" members of the home have been causing trouble by coming home drunk in the early morning.

The provincial supervisor will be consulted on disciplinary measures. The board also authorized segregation of intoxicated guests until they sober up.

The superintendent said that to place the men on the interdicted list would be no cure.

Steelworkers Reject Stelco's 15½c Offer

HAMILTON (CP)—The United Steelworkers of America Wednesday rejected a package offer of 15½ cents an hour from the Steel Company of Canada and stood pat on demands for a 48-cent boost.

The union refused the Stelco offer at the end of the first day of conciliation board hearings in what is considered the key contract dispute in the Canadian steel industry.

Company and union officials said rejection of the Stelco offer did not mean a strike is imminent.

The union's major demands include: A substantial wage increase; a boost in the job class increment to six cents an hour from 4½ cents; a one-cent increase in shift premiums; elimination of geographic differentials in other Stelco plants; a supplementary unemployment benefit program; a guaranteed annual wage; premium pay for weekends; voluntary overtime; improvements in pension plan and a new vacation program.

H. J. Clawson, Stelco's director of industrial relations, said even a modest increase in steel costs would be economically prejudicial to Canadians.

"The alternative would appear to be a prolonged strike if the union continues to maintain its position," he said.

Townsend Ends Course

Carolyn Asked Andy, Wins Encyclopedia

Carolyn Yip has wanted an encyclopedia ever since she has been able to look at pictures and spell out words.

"You'd better ask Andy for one," said her mother.

CAROLYN YIP

So Carolyn did, and in competition with 12,000,000 other youngsters, she won a complete set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia—in time for her 10th birthday.

Carolyn sent the question "What caused the Ice Age" to the Times "Ask Andy" column in June. She has received her certificate and proudly framed it. Now she's waiting for her prize.

What would a delicate little Chinese miss want with a set of encyclopedia?

"I'm going to read it," she piped.

Carolyn's favorite subject at school is art. A grade five student at Oaklands, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Yip, 2405 Vancouver street.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

Domestic shippers supported oats and barley with export and U.S. buying appearing in barley. Trade reports indicated a moderate amount of barley sold to the United Kingdom.

There was export support of flax with parcel lots going to Japan. There was U.S. interest in rye and new seasonal highs were recorded.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—A break in July soybeans, down nearly eight cents at one time, upset other cereals on the board of trade today.

Losses in other grains were not large, however, and toward the finish wheat made a good recovery, going above the previous close in some contracts.

Profit-taking and wet weather in the midwest combined to send corn lower. Oats held up well, particularly the July future. Rye aslo sank on profit-taking.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market staged a mild rally in mid-afternoon dealings today.

The market opened with industrials a few decimal points ahead but sank lower as the morning progressed. It reached its lowest point around noon. The downward trend followed three days of solid gains which boosted the industrial and western oil indices to several all-time highs.

Despite lower prices in senior base metals, Hudson Bay gained a point and Noranda ⅞. International Nickel and Labrador were down ½.

Hudson Bay Mining led Canadian stocks on the upside with a gain of two points. Dome Mines was up ¼. Aluminium Ltd. led losers with a drop of three points. Distillers-Seagram was down ⅜.

Prices were mixed in moderately active trading on the American stock exchange. Loblaw B gained 3¼. Fargo Oil was up 1-16. Preston East Dome, Fargo Oil, Great Sweet Grass Oil and Sapphire Petroleums all lost 1-16. Other oils also dropped fractionally.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Despite the pause in the Wall Street advance Wednesday stock markets continued to make headway today and many of the leading industrials showed further substantial gains. There was little to assist sentiment although a number of favorable company statements had come to hand.

Distillers were higher following the excellent results. Hire purchase shares were wanted following the increased dividend and profits by United Dominion Trust. American favorites established big gains. Engineerings, motors and aircrafts were all firm. Nuclear power shares continued in demand.

Gilt-edged securities, however, showed falls of up to ⅛. Oils displayed an easier trend but Triad was a strong market.

All Forest Lands Should Be Managed By Crown—Howard

The Crown should manage B.C.'s forest lands—every single acre of them, Ronald Howard, counsel for Western Forest Management Association, told the Sloan Royal Commission on forestry today.

Answering Commissioner Sloan, Mr. Howard said: "We support public working circles and we would ike to see the whole of our forests, or at least most of them, in public working circles."

He added that from the outset of forest management licences, it was agreed the requirements of the operator who is not granted a management licence would be taken care of by public working circles.

"This is another of those policies which, when put to the test, do not work out as planned," Mr. Howard said.

Lumsdon Wins 25-Mile Marathon

Toronto Swim Star Beats Park In Atlantic City Thriller

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—In a finish that looked more like a 25-yard sprint than a 25-mile marathon, Toronto's Cliff Lumsdon won his first Atlantic City swim in three attempts Wednesday as he edged defending champion Tom Park by the barest of margins.

Lumsdon, who has beaten Park in Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition swims but finished second behind the transplanted Hamilton swimmer, now a U.S. citizen, in both previous Atlantic City contests, turned the tables this time by one-fifth of a second.

The half-stroke that separated the two leaders meant a difference of $3,000 to the Toronto veteran, whose first-prize money was $5,000 compared to Park's $2,000.

Ahead of both men at the finish was Greta Anderson of Denmark, who had a 30-minute head start as did the other eight women in the field. But in elapsed time she was fourth behind the two leaders and Steve Wozniak of Buffalo.

TIDES CAUSE SLOWNESS

The winning times: Lumsdon 9.51, Park 9.51.00.2, Wozniak 10.06.30, Miss Anderson 10.17.

Despite the calm weather, both Lumsdon and Miss Anderson were well over the men's and women's records for the swim around Adsecon Island. Swim officials blamed contrary tides for the relatively slow times.

Park set the men's record, a full half-hour faster than Wednesday's winning time, in the 1954 inaugural of the race. The women's record of 10.07.28 was set the same year by Toronto's Marilyn Bell, whose impending attempt to cross the strait of Juan de Fuca kept her out of this year's race.

Most Canadian entries fared well. Muriel Ferguson of Toronto, making her first try as a professional, won $750 as the second woman to finish and was seventh in the over-all standings with a time of 11.06.30.

Right behind her was last year's women's winner, Lies Put Jamnicky of Montreal, who collected $500 for finishing third in 11.18.30. She was eighth among the 11 to finish. Ninth over-all and fourth among the women was Vivian King Thompson of Winnipeg in 11.49, good for $250.

Bill Tremblay of Montreal was 11th and last of the 22-man field to finish, but collected no prize money.

Twenty-year-old Jean la Coursiere of Rosemount, Que., was pulled out near the finish suffering from abdominal cramps and was treated at Atlantic City Hospital. He was released later in the evening.

Damage Action In School Bus Accident Fails

A civil suit of a father who claimed damages from a bus driver and the Lake Cowichan School Board for injuries his young daughter suffered when she was run over by a school bus, was dismissed by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court Wednesday.

Plaintiff was Harold Wilfred Lovell of Honeymoon Bay, who sued bus driver Horace Walker Budd and the school board on behalf of his six-year-old child, Diane.

The justice dismissed the action on the grounds there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the bus driver and the school board.

"I'm exceedingly sorry for the little girl and the parents," said Mr. Justice Macfarlane, "but I think I must dismiss the action with costs."

The jurist noted that evidence at the trial disclosed that the child alighted from the school bus near her home. No witness saw the accident, he said, but a few moments later a woman saw the girl lying on the road just as the bus was rounding the corner.

The bus driver said he could not recall seeing the child leaving the bus stop and didn't have any knowledge of running over her.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane inferred that the little girl was running alongside the bus after the vehicle started moving.

Logger, 21, Dies In Island Mishap

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — RCMP here have identified the victim of a Salmon river logging accident who died Wednesday.

He was Charles Bush, 21, of Campbell river.

Police said Bush was hooking logs on a cold deck pile when he fell 20 feet.

Nanaimo Polio-Free Since Start of Year

NANAIMO (CP)—For the first time in 10 years, the Nanaimo Health Unit has recorded no cases of polio since the first of the year.

Dr. E. W. Best, health unit director, reports that other units in B.C. have recorded a low incidence of polio.

"It is too early to say whether this is the result of the Salk shots but it is encouraging," he said.

'End Blood, Guts' Says Safety Chief

Government-Guided Safety Program For General Public Asked By IWA

The most safety-conscious man in North America's forest industry claims a 66 per cent drop in forest accidents can be extended to the general public through a government-guided safety program.

John T. Atkinson, safety director for International Woodworkers of America district 1, covering all of B.C. and Alberta, led the drive against forest industry accidents during the past eight years.

He made his suggestion in an interview Wednesday and plans to meet for discussion with Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

"All society should take a lesson from the forest industry and note that accidents can be prevented," he said.

PEOPLE'S PROGRAM

"There must be a program for the people, evolved on the principle that the only people who can prevent accidents are the people who have accidents, and it must be done as a joint co-operative effort."

His proposal for the public would include what he called the three E's of safety: education, engineering and enforcement of the law. Each by itself is of little value; all must work together, he said.

Director of such a program should be the attorney-general, said the expert. Mr. Atkinson has broached the subject to the attorney-general's department in the past.

"Every weekend, six to eight people die in B.C., whether on the highways, whether they drown, or what have you. But they die."

The IWA's safety program, based on all-union policy and adhered to by management and labor in the woods, sawmills, plywood plants, shingle factories and in log trucking, is regarded by lumber working circles and other industries across the continent as the best plan yet devised.

It has taken logging out of industry's bad-record group, where for many years it chalked up high mortality and injury figures.

Mr. Atkinson, recently chosen chairman of the IWA's International Safety Council at a meeting in Portland, will spend the next two weeks in the Victoria area on a survey and lecture tour among mills and other operations.

Accident rate for the lumber manufacturing industry along the B.C. coast is "excellent," much of this success due to emphasis and impetus of safety week, May 7-11 this year.

MISHAP-FREE

"Many Victoria sawmills have accident-free records since then," the director said.

"The entire forest industry of North America is watching B.C.'s safety progress and is desirous of obtaining similar programs in other places."

The IWA devised its safety program to fit membership along the entire coast from Alaska to Mexico.

This program, already extended beyond membership into their families, will soon include education aimed at highway safety.

If the IWA can accomplish so much within so short a time, Mr. Atkinson feels safety can be extended successfully to the public.

A result of the higher safety level in the forest industry is a saving to the industry itself. Employer assessment for workmen's compensation is lowest of all industries in B.C., yet compensation benefits for loggers and other lumber workers are highest in North America.

"We are delighted with the progress, and it will continue," said the director.

Bosox Start Move

Take Third Place; Yanks Lose Pair

By The Associated Press

Unfortunately, they're sprinting on a treadmill in the American League race.

Williams, blaming early Sox disappointments on injuries, illness and sore arms, figured the Bostons were healthy and ready to go. And after being sidetracked by New York the Red Sox now have won 10 of 12, skipping past Chicago into third place and to within six points of runner-up Cleveland.

They closed in on the Indians Wednesday, beating Kansas City 7-3 as Mel Parnell followed up his Saturday no-hitter with a seven-hit job that was good enough.

The Yankees, however, still lead the pack by a plush 9½ games—even after Detroit ended their winning streak at 11 games with an 8-4 and 4-3 doubleheader sweep. Cleveland split at Washington, losing 7-5 and winning 11-1. And the White Sox were knocked off by Baltimore 4-3 for their 11th straight defeat—longest slump in the majors this season.

PARNELL'S FOURTH

In the National Milwaukee re-established its two-game lead with a 7-3 decision over New York Giants, Brooklyn defeated second-place Cincinnati 6-3. Rain held Pittsburgh and St. Louis to a 1-1 tie called in the top of the 10th. And Philadelphia swept Chicago Cubs 6-4 and 6-1.

The Red Sox, enjoying their best surge since winning 14 of 16 in June of 1955, have gained only a half-game on New York but have packed away 8½ games against Chicago and 4½ against Cleveland.

A four-run eighth inning against Troy Herriage (1-9) kept them going Wednesday. Jackie Jensen's single broke a 3-3 tie and Don Buddin added a two-run double in the rally. Parnell won his fourth, but lost his no-hit touch quickly—the first two men he faced singled.

Leonard 'Ticked Off' By Cup Golf Chairman

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Brig. A. C. Critchley, chairman of the recent Canada Cup matches in Wentworth, Surrey, has criticized golfer Stan Leonard for "poor sportsmanship."

Brig. Critchley was commenting on Leonard's complaints over conditions during the British Open at Hoylake, where he went after playing in the Canada Cup at Wentworth.

"Leonard received first-class treatment in Britain. All of his expenses were paid, all transportation taken care of and accommodation provided at Wentworth, plus his $5,000 honorarium. We did our very best for him and his wife, although he was one of the very few who brought their families.

"His complaints of terrible accommodation in Liverpool were childish because it has long been a standing British Open rule that pros find their own accommodation."

The retired Canadian army officer, head of the British Greyhound Racing Association in Britain, said:

CANADA SUFFERS

"It's my personal opinion that Stan left Wentworth with a chip on his shoulder after blowing his lead in the last round to Snead and Hogan. It has certainly not enhanced the popularity of Canadian athletes abroad.

"We . . . were eager for a Canadian to win the Canada Cup, which would have happened but for Leonard's unfortunate collapse. The real misfortune, however, was in his subsequent remarks, which showed poor sportsmanship."

Brig. Critchley purchased London's White City Stadium in 1925 and transformed it into one of the world's finest. He conceived and controls Harringay Stadium and Harringay Arena, and tracks at Stamford Bridge, New Cross and in Birmingham, Edinburgh and Manchester.

SHAMROCK OLD-TIMERS TO HIT BOARDS AGAIN

Victoria Shamrocks Old-Timers will meet the Junior Shamrocks next Wednesday night at Memorial Arena as a prelude to the Intercity Lacrosse League fixture between the present Rocks and New Westminster Salmonbellies.

The stars of yesteryear will include Duff McCaghey, Fred Ranson, Norm Baker, Ralph Baker, Ed Popham, Jr., Len Scott, Norm Coates and Arnie Ferguson. Other old-time wearers of the green are expected to be coaxed out of retirement before the game. Game starts at 7.50, and will continue until 8.15.

SUGAR BOWL AFFECTED

Inter-Racial Ban Hits Sport Events

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — Louisiana's national athletic outlook was dimmed today in the face of a new law banning racially-mixed competition in the state.

Gov. Earl Long signed into law Monday a bill outlawing any events, amateur or professional, between white and Negro players.

The president of the Sugar Bowl classic at New Orleans, Paul E. Deblanc said after the signing his group would try to live with the new law which will go into effect Oct. 15. The executive committee of the mid-winter sports association previously warned the governor his signature on the bill would seriously hurt the Sugar Bowl.

Another immediate reply came from Louisiana State where board chairman Louis Gottlieb said the university would obey the law. One immediate affect may be the cancellation of a contract with the University of Wisconsin for a home-and-home football series in 1957 and 1958.

Proposed exhibition baseball games by major league teams next spring are apparently killed by the new law.

Loyola University of the south at New Orleans, which plays a major basketball schedule, will also be affected in its pioneering of mixed athletic events in the south.

In addition to putting the ban on all racially-mixed athletic or sporting events of any type, the new law calls for segregated seating and sanitary facilities at all public events.

PAUL WILLEY

Paul Willey Likely Choice For Net Team

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Willey of Vancouver Wednesday upset Toronto's Don Fontana, member of Canada's last Davis Cup team, 4-6, 7-5, 9-7, 6-3 to enter the finals of the men's singles in the Ontario tennis championships.

Willey, fourth seeded in the tournament, meets Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., also a member of last year's Davis Cup team, in the final today.

The win helped Willey's chances for a berth on Canada's Davis Cup team, personnel of which will be officially named at Montreal Friday. Bedard, Fontana and Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver are other likely prospects. Bedard and Fontana were members of the 1955 team.

Canada meets the United States in the North American zone finals at Victoria next weekend.

Bedard defeated Barclay 6-3, 6-4, 6-3 in the other semi-final.

Bedard and Fontana captured the men's doubles title with a 6-4, 6-3, 4-6, 5-7, 6-4 victory over Barclay and Willey.

Gomez Fined, Suspended; Adcock Fined

MILWAUKEE (AP) — One of the wildest melees of the current National League season resulted Wednesday in a $250 fine for pitcher Ruben Gomez of the New York Giants, a $100 fine for first baseman Joe Adcock of Milwaukee Braves and a three-day suspension for Gomez.

In addition, Gomez drew a severe reprimand from Warren C. Giles, league president, who stipulated that the fine be paid personally by the Giants' pitcher, not his team. Adcock was not suspended.

The Puerto Rican righthander touched off a mad fracas involving players of both teams in the second inning of Tuesday night's game when he twice hit Adcock—once with a pitched ball and once with a deliberately thrown ball. Adcock, with most of his teammates in pursuit, charged after Gomez who ran to the dugout and disappeared up the ramp leading to the clubhouse. Order was restored by the umpires and half a dozen police officers. The Giants eventually won in 11 innings, 8-6.

Swaps, Nashua May Meet

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Swaps, holder of three world records, Ribot, the unbeaten European champion, and Nashua, who has won more money than any race horse in history, have received invitations to the invitational $100,000 Atlantic City Handicap Aug. 11.

These three were top-weighted among 79 horses from various countries assigned weights for the unusual race by handicapper James P. Ross, Jr. Ross rated Rex C. Ellsworth's Swaps and Razza Doemello-Olgiata's Italian-bred Ribot, both four-year-olds, at 130 pounds for the 1¼-mile event. Nashua, owned by the Leslie Combs II syndicate, was given 129 pounds.

Under the conditions for the Atlantic City Handicap, the top 12 horses listed receive invitations. If any of the high-weighted horses decline, the next in line are invited until a field of 12 is completed. There are no nomination or starting fees. The winner of the race will receive $65,000, with $20,000 to second, $10,000 to third and $5,000 to fourth.

After the top three in Ross' weight assignments came Taten, the Argentine champion, at 127 pounds and France's Tropique at 125. El Khobar, a New Zealand racer, and American Summer Tan were assigned 122 pounds. Completing the top 12 were five American horses, Bobby Brocato, 120, and Switch On, Fisherman, Find and Mister Gus, all 119.

PURSE DEMANDS MUST BE LOWERED

Racing Here Doubtful

Colwood Park Racing Association is considering cancellation of the 14-day horse racing meet scheduled for Sandown Park, Sept. 15 - Oct. 1.

The association will meet later this month with the horsemen to set purse totals, and if the horsemen do not lower their demands, the association may be forced to cancel the Sandown meet.

Bob Randall, spokesman for the association told the Times from Vancouver that, "if the horsemen come in line, Sandown will open as scheduled."

"We will start talks with them very shortly," he said. "The negotiations will take quite a while, but the prizes will have to be lowered if we can expect to continue at Sandown.

"And we'll have to have at least a 50 per cent rise over last year's betting figures before we even come close to breaking even this year."

In its first racing meet at Sandown, newly-built near Sidney just last year, the association lost heavily.

It also lost money on its first harness racing meet last year, and the five-day harness meet at Sandown which concluded earlier this month.

Rocks Rock Pils, But Jake Unmoved

Booth, Irwin Set Pace In Easy Win

Shamrocks 19, Pilseners 6

By BILL WALKER

This one didn't figure to go the way it did—not in such convincing style at any rate.

Victoria Shamrocks not only tied the can to the Pilseners' nine-game winning streak at Memorial Arena Wednesday night, but they rattled the bucket real good.

Victory was by the whopping margin of 19-6, highest goal total by the Irish this year and, besides leaving the Rocks just four points behind the Pils in the Intercity Lacrosse League duel for second place, it left Whitey Severson of the Irish pleasantly pleased.

"It was the shooting," said Whitey, who didn't dress for the contest; "that's what I liked most about the game."

In that regard, Larry Booth and Harry Irwin drew nods of approval; both had four-goal evenings. Alan Gill and rookie Ed Kowalyk got hat tricks, Gil, in particular, being a standout, with Kowalyk a much-improved performer.

On the other hand, defeat rested lightly with coach Jake Proctor of Pils. "I'm not worried," said Jake, who saw his second action of the season and scored his first goal; "I'm happy with the club; we had four good players—Bob Marsh, Ted Hunt, Joe Durante and Skip McKay—missing tonight . . . and that makes a difference."

"They got the jump on us, and that was it," continued Proctor, who then added a few comments, much more unkind in nature, concerning the referees.

"If they would only call the penalties as they see 'em and not when the crowd hollers . . .

"But then we had a defeat coming, and we'll be tough; as for Nanaimo, they can be beat; I think we've proved that with three victories this year."

GEORDY SHARP

Goalie Geordy Johnston of the Irish, who worked his first full game since his operation for a perforated ulcer, wasn't the most overworked player on the floor. But Geordy did what he had to do and did it well; so well that rookie Don Hamilton, his alternate, commented: "He's sharp, isn't he?"

Actually the game was uninspiring after the first period when, thanks to two-goal efforts by Gill and Irwin, the Rocks had a 5-0 bulge. Maybe it was the 85-degree temperature in the building, or perhaps it was the Irish night to howl and Pils' night to look bad.

Which is what happened.

The Rocks rocked and rolled for the first two periods and had a 12-1 edge at the intermission for a sparkling display of sniping.

In the second half they got a little self-conscious and forgot their passing drill, else the rout might have been more convincing. Pils showed little fight except to parry blows with the opposition. Denny Huddleston took on Jack Thompson, and Jim Swanson chopped Jack Northup like he was a tree.

Referees Sid Greenwood and Earl McDonald ruled with a light touch—too light, as Jake said, and the Irish could agree to that observation.

But the Rocks earned all the orchids that go with victory.

Johnston said it for the club when he commented:

"They made it easy for me."

SECOND STRAIGHT TIE

Saanich Teams Evenly Matched

Island Decorators and Capital City Service continued their Saanich Babe Ruth League semifinal battle on Wednesday, and again the result was a tie.

The two clubs, fighting to decide which team enters the final, and each with a win in the best-of-three series, struggled to a 3-3 deadlock. On Tuesday the score was 2-2.

Capital City and Decorators will again try to settle the series at Reynolds Road Park tonight.

Dowell's Cartage moved into a first-place tie with Victoria Tire after downing Pacific Sheet Furnaces, 4-3, in a Colt League game at Windsor Park on Wednesday.

Ernie Byrell rapped out both of Dowell's hits and scored three of their four runs as he helped pitcher Barry Harvey defeat Victoria Tire's moundsman, Rick Kelsall, in the tight duel.

Eagles whipped Duncan, 16-2, to move into a first-place tie with ANAF Vets in North Kiwanis League at Royal Athletic Park.

BABE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Babe Zaharias, famed woman golfer fighting cancer at John Sealey Hospital here, Wednesday was reported "progressing remarkably well" from an operation to relieve leg pains.

A hospital bulletin reported her outlook was cheerful. A hospital official said Babe quipped Wednesday morning, "I think I'll read the papers today to see how I feel."

Hendry's Resignation Soccer's Death-Knell?

Jock Hendry's resignation Wednesday as secretary-manager of the Coast Soccer League may have rung the death knell on the already stumbling league and its new summer schedule.

So says United president George Eade.

Hendry, the explosive Scotsman who is also president of the Canadian Soccer Association, was the prime force behind the new league after he had been sought last winter by CSL officials to take over and promote the new summer setup.

Summer soccer failed to catch on quite as expected, however, and Hendry's resignation is now believed to be the beginning of the end for the much-troubled circuit, which was in its death throes last winter before he took over.

Eade summed up the feelings of soccer enthusiasts when he told the Times Wednesday that Hendry's resignation "would pretty well put the clincher on the new league, now."

"The league was in pretty bad shape, anyway," he said, "with the poor crowds they were getting in Vancouver and the salaries they paid players being far out of line.

"We thought it would fold after this season, anyway. The league can get through the second half schedule all right this year; it will practically run itself. But next year, I don't know."

League executive will hold a meeting to discuss the situation as soon as possible. It is expected to be held when president Bob Paton is released from a short stay in a Vancouver hospital.

LITTLE COMMENT

"All I can say is that I have nothing more to do with the Coast Soccer League," he told the Times Wednesday. "I have no intention of giving any reasons for quitting except that the league wasn't making the progress I had hoped for.

"I told the league executive two weeks ago that I was getting out at the end of the first-half. They said to put it in writing and I did that this morning (Wednesday)."

The first half ended Tuesday night when United lost to New Westminster Royals, 8-3, at Callister Park. Only 979 fans attended the game.

Two months ago, Hendry resigned along with the executive when the four mainland clubs refused to admit Victoria to the league, but returned to office when Victoria was finally admitted.

Hendry also blamed poor newspaper publicity and the failure of the PNE to keep promises about improving Callister Park facilities, as some of the reasons why he was stepping down.

HALECOS HERE

Meanwhile, the CSL fixture between United and Vancouver Halecos, first of the second half schedule, will go as billed Friday night at Athletic Park.

United, still without a manager after Jim Lackie resigned last week, will go with Archie McMillan in goal; Bill Hope and Joe Robbins, fullbacks; John Pickburn, Dave Guthrie and Harold Holroyd, halfs; and Ced Robb, George Wright, Tom Druce, Tim Walker and Ken Hibbert, forwards. Spares will be Harry Carruthers, Joe Hillhouse, Don Jones, Willie McMillan and Cec Harrison.

Halecos, tied for first place in first-half standings, will have Ken Pears in goal; Dick Kenning and Jack Cowan, backs; Jack Steele, George Bogdanovitch and Jim Logan, half; and Gordie McLeod, Sid Gorrie, Ed Bak, Brian Philley and Norm McLeod, forwards. Spares will be F. Sealey, Ken Campbell, George Young and R. Bruce.

Doug Ford Favored To Retain PGA Crown

CANTON, Mass. (UP) — Defending champion Doug Ford, because "he's one of the better scramblers," was the pick of most of his fellow pros to win the PGA golf championship which begins Friday on the Blue Hill Country Club course.

"Believe me it takes a scrambler to win this one," said veteran Jimmy Demaret, expressing the general sentiment of the other 127 golfers who will be shooting to dethrone Ford. "That isn't to say that Doug isn't a good golfer, for he is.

"But he's young—only 33—and it takes one of the younger golfers to win it, just as it takes what we call scramblers," he added.

Ford won the title last year in his first shot at it, beating Cary Middlecoff, the U.S. Open champion, 4 and 3 in the finals.

By a scrambler, Demaret meant a golfer who isn't too straight off the tees, but can gamble to get out of trouble because if he doesn't it will only cost him a hole "and not maybe two or three strokes which are so hard to make up in medal play.

The colorful Jimmy classed Chick Harbert, the 1954 PGA winner, and Jimmy Turnesa, another of the former champions in the field, as "scramblers in the Ford class."

Sammy Snead, one of the two three-time winners of the title in the field, "is a scrambler of sorts, too," Demaret said. "But there's a difference—Snead is 44 and that's old when it comes to this match play."

The PGA is a five-day affair with a single 18-hole round on Friday, two 18-hole rounds on Saturday and Sunday, and 36-hole matches on Monday and Tuesday. Thus to win it, the champion conceivably would have to go 162 holes.

"That's too much to ask of any golfer except the young ones," Demaret said. "That's why I feel the PGA should adopt a new format, making the championships a 72-hole medal play tournament like the Open, rather than this match play business."

Mims No Match For Spider Webb

CHICAGO (UP)—Spider Webb, a hard-punching middleweight with only 16 pro fights, rated consideration for a "top ten" ranking today, even though his first major victory, over Holly Mims, was over "a tired old man."

Webb, weighing 157½ pounds to Mims' 157, punched out a convincing 10-round decision in the television battle from the Chicago Stadium, even though it was the first time he ever has gone that distance.

Edwards Joins Reds

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cincinnati Redlegs Wednesday signed veteran catcher Bruce Edwards as a free agent. Edwards, 33, formerly played with Brooklyn and Chicago in the National League and with Washington in the American League. Edwards batted .310 with Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League earlier this year.

Compton May Rejoin England's Test Side

LONDON (AP)—Denis Compton came back to big-time cricket Wednesday and proved that it takes more than a serious knee operation to keep him out of the game.

Compton, the gay cavalier of many a fine innings for England, returned only recently to county cricket after having a knee-cap removed. The English selectors decided to give him a tryout in the Players vs. Gentlemen match at Lords. The match is regarded as an official test for places in England's team.

Compton was at the wicket only 20 minutes. But he scored 25 in fine style and with all his usual confidence — a sign that Compton may be back in England's side for the fourth test match against Australia starting July 26.

Close-of-play scores:

Players, 216 for eight, vs. Gentlemen.

Middlesex, 64; Kent, 179 for three.

Lancashire, 207 for seven vs. Nottinghamshire.

Essex, 96 for four, vs. Derbyshire.

Glamorgan, 176; Yorkshire, 5 for one.

Worcestershire, 257; Sussex 2 for no wicket.

Royal Air Force, 216 for eight, vs. Northamptonshire.

Writers Battle Newcombe

CINCINNATI (UP) — Pitcher Don Newcombe's denial that he called National League umpires "gutless" saved him from a possible suspension and fine today but put him in a new battle with baseball writers covering the Dodgers on their western trip.

Newcombe was ordered to appear before National League president Warren C. Giles Tuesday where he was confronted with his remarks: "I call the umpires a bunch of gutless bums and you can quote me."

Big Newk promptly signed a statement which Giles had prepared and which he concluded with the words "I emphatically deny that I ever said any such thing. I just did not say that or anything like that."

Giles read the remarks attributed to Newcombe in a United Press story published in Cincinnati under a Chicago date line. The United Press correspondent traveling with the Dodgers, reiterated today that Newcombe did make the remarks attributed to him.

The same remarks also were carried by correspondents with three different New York City newspapers.

In the face of Newcombe's alternative of denying his remarks or being punished, each of the correspondents involved stated again today that Newcombe made the remarks to them, each with the added assurance from the big hurler that "you can quote me."

Girl Born to Olivia de Haviland

"The Ambassador's Daughter" has had a daughter, her father, Walter Augustus de Havilland, 1064 Beverly, informed the Times proudly this morning.

Mr. de Havilland was speaking of his daughter Olivia, one of his two renowned actress daughters. The other is Joan Fontaine.

He said he had received the news from Olivia's husband, Pierre Galente, this morning in a cable from Paris. This is Olivia's second child. She has a boy of six from a previous marriage.

Mr. de Havilland was proud also of the reviews covering Olivia's latest picture, a comedy entitled "The Ambassador's Daughter."

"I told her it was time she tried comedy again," he chuckled, "and I was right."

Olivia, like her sister Joan, is an Academy Award winner. She won her first in 1946 in "To Each His Own," and her second in 1949 for "The Heiress."

Symphony's Mozart Programs To Be Displayed at Salzburg

DUNCAN—Programs of the Mozart concerts given here on May 30 and June 1 by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra have been chosen for inclusion among those to be exhibited in the Mozarteum, Salsburg, birthplace of the famous composer. Hans Gruber, symphony conductor, had received this information from Sir Ernest McMillan, Toronto, and passed along to Duncan Rotary which had handled pre-sale of the concert tickets in Duncan.

The Duncan programs will be among the dozen selected from the more than 1,000 festivals held this year throughout the world to mark the 200th anniversary of Mozart's birth.

Work Starts On Substation In Saanich

Construction crews are installing footings for transformers for a new $1,000,000 B.C. Electric substation off Lochside drive in Saanich, company officials said today.

The substation, which will receive power at 132,000 volts, is scheduled to be completed by Oct. 14.

Company officials said the substation will afford greater power security to Saanich areas, and more stabilized voltage conditions.

The station when completed will be named George Tripp substation in honor of the late company official who for many years was general superintendent of the firm.

Commonwealth Construction Ltd. has been awarded the $72,000 contract for the substation structure, and Western Bridge and Steel Ltd. will do the steel work at a cost of $16,700.

Other contracts will be let later.

Liz Taylor Wilding Part

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Elizabeth Taylor and her husband Michael Wilding are separating, but no divorce is planned at present, her studio said Wednesday night.

The move came as no surprise to Hollywood. Rumors that there was trouble between the beautiful screen star and her husband have been circulating for a year although the couple had denied them.

They have two children.

Planners Approve Saanich TV Site

Saanich town planning commission Wednesday approved the application of David Armstrong, owner and manager of CKDA, for the rezoning of a six-acre site to permit the construction of a $250,000 television station (CHEK-TV) in the municipality.

The commission's decision will be referred to Saanich Council which will set a date for a public hearing to discuss the issue with residents of the area involved.

The site is near the Cedar Hill golf course, bounded by Queensbury Avenue on the north, Epsom Drive on the west and Tattersal Drive on the south.

'TAKE IT ON AS A PUBLIC SERVICE'

Sloan Asked to Name Sloan For Top Advisory Position

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan has been asked to approve the appointment of himself as chairman of a proposed advisory board on forestry.

The suggestion was made to him Wednesday afternoon as he continued his 18-month-old inquiry into British Columbia's forest industry.

The chief justice smiled quietly when Ronald Howard, counsel for the Western Forest Management Association, told him:

EMINENTLY FITTED

"You, sir, are eminently fitted by your experience and integrity to act as chairman of the advisory board we believe is essential to the welfare of our forest industry."

Still smiling, the chief justice leaned forward in his chair and said:

"I will give you a chance to reconsider that proposal after I have delivered my report on this hearing."

(The chief justice will begin his report after hearing final argument by the companies concerned. It is expected to be completed towards the end of thsi year.)

NO APPEAL

Mr. Howard, continuing the argument he began Monday morning, contended that an advisory board was essential to the B.C. forest industry and would act as a liaison body between the government and the public.

"Under the present system, with the government in charge of forest management licences, it is very difficult for anyone to appeal a decision," he declared.

The chief justice said he agreed with Mr. Howard's submission that an advisory board should be "so set up that it has prestige and absolute impartiality." But he made no comment on the proposal he should act as chairman.

"The chairman of this board should be a man of experience and prestige who is capable of bringing together all the interests which are affected by our forest products," Mr. Howard continued.

"He must be influenced by all sections of the industry, by the government and by the people. Liaison between the government and the people is essential.

"If you, sir, should be requested by the government to act as chairman we urge you to accept it as a public service to the province.

RESPONSIBLE

"We believe the primary responsibility for administration of our forests lies with the government, and given adequate advice and assistance, we believe the government will perform its functions in an intelligent and capable manner.

"If it does not, then it will be a matter for the electors."

The chief justice suggested that, if men of skill and experience in the forestry industry sat on the proposed board, "they might be just as free and fair in their justice as the judiciary."

"But," he added, "to attract men of this calibre you would have to employ them on long-term tenure and pay them salaries commensurate with what they can earn in high industrial posts."

Girl Gangs Use Knives, One Dead

NEW YORK (AP)—A 12-year-old girl stabbed a 14-year-old girl to death in a Brooklyn subway station Tuesday night in the climax of a series of brawls involving a score of girls from 12 to 17.

Evelyn Orr died after a number of knife wounds—one in the heart.

Seventeen girls were arrested. Most of them, including the slayer, were charged only with juvenile delinquency.

KILLER'S DISORDER KNOWN

STETTLER, Alta. (CP)—John E. Clark, Social Credit member of the Alberta legislature, shot and killed five members of his family and two others June 3 while afflicted with a mental disorder known as "manic depression," a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday.

The jury said the disorder that led to the deaths of seven persons had manifested itself several times in the last 20 years.

Loggers Get Around Rules, Sloan Told

The growth of B.C.'s forest administration has not kept pace with the growth of its forest industries, Ronald Howard, counsel for Western Forest Management Association, told the Sloan royal commission on forestry today.

Mr. Howard said he would present a plan whereby this administration could be improved "so that we can lay the proper foundations."

He said the administration of forest management licences and public working circles since their inception "has growed like Topsy."

It was announced at the time the legislation was passed that first consideration would be given to existing industries, Mr. Howard said.

"No survey has been conducted to investigate the needs of existing industry, or whether there is sufficient timber for a new industry," he said.

Mr. Howard told the commission there is a provision in forest management licence legislation which states that licences could not be sold by a company within 10 years of the licence being issued.

Mr. Howard claimed this provision is being circumvented by the transfer of stock, so that forest management licences are falling into the hands of foreign-controlled companies.

"My clients are opposed to any sort of allocation of timber, and we maintain that management licences are merely a form of allocation," Mr. Howard said.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

Oakalla Jailbreakers Caught in Vancouver

(From The Canadian Press)

VANCOUVER — Two young escapees were apprehended about three hours after they escaped from suburban Oakalla prison farm late Wednesday night.

Ralph Michel, 18, and John Burke, 17, were recaptured in downtown Vancouver at about 12.30 a.m. today. A third man, Alec Ham, 23, was still at large.

The three, serving time for breaking and entering, took advantage of Vancouver's 80-degree heat to make their escape.

They cut the screens from ventilators, crawled through them to the roof of the low building and dropped to the ground over a barbed wire fence.

WATERFRONT FIRE

VANCOUVER—Firemen said early discovery prevented what might have been a major fire outbreak on Vancouver's waterfront late Wednesday.

Crews controlled in 49 minutes a three-alarm fire which broke out at the Evans, Coleman and Evans Ltd. pier No. 2.

E. W. Parrott, wharf manager, said over-all damage was slight. The 10,000-ton Italian freighter Elka and a small coastal ship, the S. D. Brooks, were threatened for a time but escaped damage. No one was injured.

MILL VICTIM DIES

VANCOUVER — Louis Gruending, 45, seriously injured in a sawmill accident near Revelstoke last week died ednesday in hospital here. Gruending's stomach was pierced by a piece of metal.

$12,000 MILL FIRE

KIERNAN WILLING

ABBOTSFORD — Agriculture Minister Kiernan said here he hopes to be a candidate for the Chilliwack riding in the next provincial election. Mr. Kiernan said as far as he was concerned ""Chilliwack is my riding," to dispel rumors that he might be running in some other part of the province.

WRITER APPOINTED

KAMLOOPS—Joseph Ziebart, president of the Kamloops and District Board of Trade, announced Wednesday that Harry Taylor has been appointed secretary-manager.

Mr. Taylor succeeds Glen M. Garvin who left for a public relations job with Inland Natural Gas.

Mr. Taylor, a Kamloops Sentinel writer, was for 26 years Indian Agent in the Cariboo, here and at the coast.

CNR CASTIGATED

KITIMAT — Frank Howard, CCF MLA for Skeena, says the CNR treats its passengers like cattle.

Howard said "the daily train between Prince Rupert and Kitimat is nothing but a sweat-box in hot weather. The passenger cars are dirty and smelly and the so-called air conditioning is a joke."

"Because our department of highways has fumbled the Kitimat-Terrace road the CNR has virtual monopoly on transportation between here and Terrace, but this does not give them the right to charge first-class fare for third-class accommodation," he said.

Explosive Peppermint Shakes Cops

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two police officers here are keeping quiet about their adventure with a half-full peppermint oil bottle and a mysterious explosion at the police station.

The officers picked up the bottle while investigating a safe-blowing at a Vancouver bakery. They took it back to headquarters but, reasoning that the contents smelt strongly of peppermint while explosive nitroglycerine is tasteless and odorless, decided the exhibit was useless and threw the bottle into the incinerator.

Two days later the incinerator exploded while the janitor was emptying the waste paper baskets.

"Craziest thing of all," reported the dazed janitor, "was that the whole thing smelled of peppermint."

'Saucer' Due in Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — A flying saucer from outer space will be attracted to landing somewhere in eastern Washington within two or three weeks—if the straight-faced announcement of the civilian flying saucer intelligence here Wednesday can be believed.

The group calling itself the CFSI said the saucer will be drawn to the landing at a predetermined spot by a "secret" method.

R. J. Gribble, Seattle fireman and president of the CFSI, said the first landing will be hush, hush, but subsequent landings will be witnessed by newsmen.

It apparently was just coincidence that the CFSI "announcement" was made on the hottest day of the year.

TALLEST TOTEM ET AL

New Smile Show Fresh and Peppy

by AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

From craziest gags to tallest totem—and including the hottest evening, Jerry Gosley's new summer Smile Show was the most!

An invited preview audience which included provincial and civic dignitaries, saw the show at the Langham Court Theatre Wednesday night and gave every indication that it fitted in with the relaxed mood of summer simmer.

Emphasis was on informality with the audience frequently invited to participate—and doing so with enthusiasm. Sing-songs are old hat, but when dignified gentlemen are escorted on stage by comely dancing girls and given a whirl, western style, something new—or at least newish—has been added.

FAST, FRESH

Nervous tensions of a first night, which are inevitable even for the oldest stagers, no doubt accounted for the one or two fumbles during the program, but on the whole the show was fast, peppy and spiced with fresh touches throughout.

For example, Irene Henderson, as relaxed and professional an entertainer as one ever sees in any vaunted visiting variety show, gave a potpourri of Gracie Fields favorites, concluding with the "Tallest Aspidistra in the World."

But a new verse, written by the ingenious Mr. Gosley, was inserted at the end, to give new life to an old routine.

"The dogs line up for miles and miles and wag their tails with glee," Irene informed her audience; but . . . "it's not a tree, it's the tallest totem pole in all the world!"

RE-CREATES GRACIE

Incidentally, Irene Henderson has gone beyond mere imitation—she now re-creates Gracie.

A fine addition is Arthur Budd, late of the English professional stage, who directed the show and played a major and polished part in several of the black-out skits, best of which were "Rehearsing a Play" and "Food for Thought."

It is difficult to imagine what the Smile Show would do without Al Denoni, whose delightful personality and skilled performance on the accordion not only supports the entire program, but lights it up at intervals.

Jerry himself was excellent in "Khatmandu" and "We're Going to Fight to Keep Victoria British." Another good catchy number which he wrote and performed, together with Irene, was "On Vancouver Island."

Others in the cast were the four dancing girls, Dot Slater, Jill Pinniger, Jackie Porteous and Deanna Pizag, and Bill Curtis—who shared honors in the "Food for Thought" bit, and Ron Clydesdale.

The show opens to the public tonight and will be repeated every Thursday, Friday and Saturday for the next five weeks. It is definitely to be recommended as a light-hearted evening in typical British-Victoria style.

TO EUROPE—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell will spend about two months this summer in the United Kingdom, France, Germany and Norway. Mr. Coldwell will leave for Britain Aug. 14 and return Oct. 19.

Eden Government Rejects NATO Status for Cyprus

LONDON (AP) — Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd declared today that Britain's strategic needs in the Middle East require a firmer foundation that could be provided by a NATO base on Cyprus if the island were Greek governed.

He told the House of Commons:

"We cannot accept any doubt about the availability of facilities in Cyprus as and when we need them."

Lloyd accused the Greek Orthodox Church of encouraging "terrorism" in Cyprus and said many Greek-speaking Cypriots would be satisfied with the island's present status as a British colony were it not for pressure exerted on them.

The foreign secretary spoke in debate on the Cyprus problem.

The debate follows Prime Minister Eden's announcement last week that Britain will go ahead with plans for self-government for the Mediterranean island colony where a Greek-Cypriot terrorist campaign is being wage for union with Greece.

The opposition protests that the Cypriots should be given a date within which they can themselves choose by whom they wish to be ruled.

But government spokesmen say that, though Britain agrees to the principle of self-determination, it is impossible at the moment to put it into practice.

This is because Turkey, which ceded Cyprus to Britain in 1923, supports the 100,000 Turkish-Cypriots on the island who are bitterly opposed to Enosis (union with Greece).

EDEN NOT SPEAKING

Labor's main spokesmen—Aneurin Bevan, leftwing leader who now is the party's colonial affairs expert, and James Griffiths, deputy leader—are expected to press the government to have consultations with Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Enosis movement.

They are likely to urge that Lord Radcliffe, prominent British jurist who has been charged with drawing up a liberal constitution for internal self-government, should go to the Seychelles islands to see the archbishop.

The government, however, is adamant that there can be no negotiations with the archbishop until he at least publicly denounces terrorism.

Child-Flogger Sent to Jail For 5 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—A five-foot father, who admitted whipping his four young sons while they hung by the neck with only their toes touching the floor, was sentenced to five years in penitentiary yesterday.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge T. A. Fontaine termed Albert Lachapelle, 55, a "drunken, denatured father" and told him he deserved the lash. Lachapelle wept profusely when the judge displayed a hand-made leather whip he used on the boys.

Judge Fontaine, overcome by emotion at one point in his lecture, called Lachapelle "a brutal father, and a children's hangman." He recalled Lachapelle had numerous previous convictions for assault, including a chain-whipping of his 15-year-old daughter and an assault on a police officer who spent four months in hospital as a result.

Lachapelle, father of 11 and unemployed for three years, pleaded guilty two weeks ago to assaulting sons Emo, 14, Real, 11, Edouard, 12, and Rene, 15.

Boy 'Very Well' After Trading Eye for Life

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Mike Sibole bounced all over his hospital bed today, unconcerned about his blindness.

The four-year-old who lost one eye to cancer two years ago and the other Wednesday realizes he won't see again but that hasn't dampened his spirit.

Although restricted to bed, Mike talked with his parents, Rev. and Mrs. James Sibole, and listened to music on a small radio. He asked for a visit from his 20-month-old brother, Jerry.

Hospital officials said Mike had a "very good night" and is doing well.

Throughout the night his parents took turns watching at his bedside while the other slept on a cot.

Mike may go home from the hospital Friday or Saturday. The eye was removed Wednesday because of cancer that two years ago destroyed his other eye and spread despite long, intensive treatment.

A large section of optic nerve was cut out but there is a danger some cancer cells slipped past the removed area. There also is a possibility the operation may have been too late.

If the operation was too late, Mike has only a year or two to live, the doctor said. But without the operation, he added, he would have died soon—and painfully.

Duck Limits Set for B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Migratory bird regulations for 1956 are almost unchanged from last year, the Canadian wildlife service of the northern affairs department announced Tuesday.

B.C. has approved a change in daily bag and possession limits.

It still will be legal for a hunter in B.C. to possess 40 ducks but 20 or more must be at his home or in a cold-storage locker. A hunter may not possess more than 20 birds while on a hunting trip. Hunting opens one-half hour before sunrise.

Quebec, Manitoba and B.C. have revised boundaries dividing hunting districts.

In Monitoba the boundary line dividing the northern and central districts becomes the 55th instead of the 57th parallel. Three districts in B.C. have been subdivided into five.

Victoria taxi firms contemplate no fare boost as planned for Vancouver next month, spokesmen said today.

Taxi fares in Vancouver will go up 20 per cent Aug. 15, the first such increase in five years. Last Victoria fare hike also was five years ago.

Minimum fare in Vancouver will be 55 cents for one-third of a mile, plus 10 cents for each additional one-third of a mile. Present minimum rate is 45 cents for two-fifths of a mile.

By the increase, drivers gain a 10 per cent wage increase on $40 a week. Rising equipment and maintenance costs forced the boost, taxicab operator's association president said.

BOTANIST SZCWAWINSKI

MUSEUM TREK

New Alpine Plants Found In North B.C.

Several new plants which horticulturists believe have been in cultivation and may be new to science, have been discovered by a Victoria botanist serving on a joint Provincial Museum and University of British Columbia scientific expedition in northern British Columbia.

Ed Lohbrunner, Victoria nurseryman, said today Dr. Adam Szcwawinski, museum botanist, has sent him for safe keeping several new plants discovered in the alpine regions of the northwest corner of British Columbia.

He said the plants included species of saxifrage and erigeron, which he has never seen before.

"They are new to me, but whether they are new scientifically, I don't know," he said. "I've never seen them in cultivation."

He said the collection also included a specie of rhododendrum and orchid.

The expedition, headed by Charlie Guiget, museum biologist, is also composed of Dr. T. M. C. Taylor, head of the botany-biology department of UBC, and Mark Bell, a Victoria forestry student.

Elk Season Lengthened By 11 Days

New Game Rules Released By A-G

The open season for hunting elk on Vancouver Island has been lengthened by 11 days over last year under the government's 1956-57 game regulations approped by Attorney-General Robert Bonner today.

The new regulation refers to game management area No. 1 which takes in Comox, Alberni, Esquimalt, Cowichan - Newcastle, Nanaimo and the Islands, Saanich, Oak Bay and Victoria city electoral district.

The open seasons for deer are essentially the same as last year, but the season on antlerless deer in the East Kootenay district has been increased in order to assist farmers and ranchers in the eastern district to prevent deer from doing damage.

NEW MAP

This year's regulations incorporate a number of game management areas, the boundaries of which are to be outlined on a map printed on the back of the new regulations.

"They will act as a somewhat clearer guide than previously provided to hunters to enable them to learn quickly what hunting seasons are in effect in every area in the province," the attorney-general said.

"The establishment of game management areas will, over a period of time, be more informative to sportsmen than the technical descriptions of regions given in the past."

Little change has been made in the season for upland game bird, but the daily bag-limit on willow and ruffed grouse has been increased from three to four.

In the Tweedsmuir Park region the open season on caribou has been increased by one week over last year. The open season on bull elk in the Princeton area has been increased, while in the East Kootenay district the anlerless season has been lengthened for protection of farmers in the area.

Little change is reported in the migratory bird regulations. In regard to upland game birds, additional areas for the hunting of Chukar partridge have been provided.

Harmless Mine Discovered On West Coast

A mystery object beached in Barkley Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island was identified by the navy today as a harmless, badly decomposed Second World War mine.

An explosive disposal team under Lieut. L. Chaney, sent up the coast aboard a small auxiliary vessel Monday to investigate the report, returned to Esquimalt Wednesday night.

They said they opened the mine, which no longer bore any identifying marks to indicate nationality, and found it empty.

About four or five such derelict mines, relics of the Pacific war and at least 11 years old, are turned up on B.C. beaches annually. They were sown mostly by the Japanese navy.

The mine was discovered by the forestry department vessel Hemlock, which, following regulations, reported it to the Rescue Co-ordination Centre, Vancouver, which contacted the navy.

Big Ben Swims Tonight; Two More Aspirants

Conditions Right, Says Swim Trainer

Strait swimming fever increased today with the announcement Ben Laughren will tackle the Strait of Juan de Fuca tonight, and two more swimmers have joined the lineup of challengers.

Laughren, the 270-pound chef, had planned to make a new bid on Saturday but now plans to leave between midnight and 1 a.m. Friday to take advantage of what his trainer, Ove Witt, describes as "almost perfect conditions."

Laughren will leave from the Breakwater and will head in almost a straight line for Ediz Hook at Port Angeles.

Witt said this morning: "North-northeasterly winds are forecast for tonight and that is what we have been praying for on every swim. It's the best forecast we have ever had because the winds will be at Ben's back and will help him along his course. You can rest assured that if the conditions stay like this, we'll make it across."

If Laughren succeeds, he plans to go east next week to start training for a Lake Ontario swim.

TWO MORE

Billie worked out for Witt at Willows Beach Wednesday afternoon and he said, "She could be an excellent contender. We are going to try her for four or five days to test her endurance before we make plans for a swim."

Tammet came to Canada from England three years ago. He hopes to challenge the Strait in late August. He is preparing for the Strait swim with daily sessions in Semiahmoo Bay.

Saanich surveyor Bill Muir, who has become within a mile and a half of success in the best of his nine tries, still plans to swim Saturday. Details will be worked out Friday but tentative plans call for a noon departure from Saxe Point.

FRIDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Lions: Empress Hotel, 12 noon: Kuldeep Singh Bains of the International Travel Agency will speak on "The Story of the Canadian East Indian."

Four Flee Fire In Night Attire

GAS GASP ACCIDENT

Edmond Adkin, 1641 Cedar, who told police he coasted through a stop sign trying to reach a gas station, was fined $35 in city police court today for careless driving.

Adkin collided with another car at the intersection of Moss and May. He said his car had been sputtering and was trying to reach a gas station before the tank went dry.

Magistrate Henry Hall allowed him to retain his driver's licence on the condition that he use it for business purposes only for one month.

Trucker Saves Drowning Boy

A drowning was narrowly averted in Esquimalt lagoon Wednesday night when a city truck driver dragged a 13-year-old boy to safety after he had gone down for the third time.

Vic Matthews, 928 Bay, said his mother saw the boy in trouble in the middle of the lagoon and called him. Matthews reached him just as he was going down again in about six feet of water.

Identity of the boy, believed to be from Alberta, was not learned.

Mr. Matthews said he advised the boy's party to make a report to Colwood RCMP, but police said today they knew nothing of the incident.

The boy was revived by artificial respiration applied on the beach, and the resuscitator crew was not called.

1 Year in Jail For Garage Entry

A one-year jail term was handed out in city police court today to David Guthrie, 834 Devonshire, for breaking and entering.

Guthrie, with a record of six similar offences, pleaded guilty to breaking into Horwood Bros. Garage, 1725 Government, on July 10. Nothing was stolen.

He was arrested hiding under a trailer on a nearby parking lot.

Smoke Ejector Required In Saanich House Blaze

Fire in a home less than two blocks from the Saanich No. 1 fire hall early today forced four persons to flee in night attire.

Mrs. Ernest Stevens, 3521 Douglas, said she was wakened by smoke pouring through the house shortly after 1 a.m.

She roused her husband, then ran downstairs to a basement room where their daughter, Linda, eight, and a friend, Carol Robinson, 12, Eaton Road, were sleeping. They fled through a basement door.

LUCKY

"They were very lucky to get out in time," a Saanich fireman said today.

The fire department was called by a passerby who ran the block and a half to the station.

Flames were confined to the living room. Mrs. Stevens said damage to furnishings amounted to about $400.

The fire is believed to have started in a chesterfield.

Firemen said the smoke was so dense they had to use a "smoke-ejector"—a big fan—to clear the house.

Man Sues After Fall Down Pit

Unstated and general damages are claimed in the civil suit of John Smith Falconer, 723 Field street, instituted against Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd., 1300 Douglas street, for injuries he suffered when he fell through an open pit on the sidewalk which is used by the store for the unloading of merchandise.

The suit filed in Supreme Court Registry is scheduled to come up for examination in discovery on Sept. 4—a preliminary step before the damage action can be heard in Supreme Court.

Named as a third party in the action is Heaney Cartage and Storage Ltd., which was delivering goods to the drug store at the time of the accident.

Mr. Falconer, an employee of the Federal Department of Fisheries, claims that he was walking along Douglas street when he suddeny fell through the open pit. He alleges the pit was left unguarded and unfenced.

As the result of the accident, he claims, he suffered from a broken jaw, concussion and permanent facial disfigurement.

City Cadets Fight Heat At Vernon

Among 873 Alberta and B.C. army cadets sweating out summer camp in Vernon's 90-degree temperatures are two Indians, an Australian and a resident of Victoria's Mountain View Home for aged men.

The latter, like the others, is a bona fide member of the camp. He is 16-year-old Cadet Sgt.-Maj. S. L. Stothard, son of Mountain View Home superintendent James Stothard, regimental sergeant-major of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

Cadets are at camp to take six weeks of courses covering junior and senior leaders, instructors, driving and maintenance and signals.

SPORTS APLENTY

Because of the intense heat at midday, training is being held from 8 a.m.-noon, with the remainder of the day devoted to swimming, sports and conducted tours.

Camp will close with a military searchlight tattoo similar to the one held by B.C. Area in Vancouver in the spring. Participants will be entirely teen-aged cadets.

Shortly before cadets are due to break camp, 250 CWAC members will move in for their annual two-week camp, with instructors held over from cadet training.

Camp commandant is area commander Brig. George Kitching, who will assume a new position with Canadian army headquarters in Ottawa shortly after cadet camp closes.

ASK The TIMES

Q. Where is Point Roberts and after whom was it named? —R.H.P.

A. Point Roberts is located in the State of Washington, within a few miles of Boundary Bay. It is on a peninsula, which is divided by the 49th parallel. Q. I have been following the "Naval Ship Movements" in the Times and have looked on several maps for Salinas, Ecuador. According to them, there is a Salinas in Argentina, Mexico and Kansas, but none in Equador. Could you please tell me which map the navy used?—L.W.

MARILYN, GUS SWIM WITH PALSIED CHILDREN

'Rather Teach Handicapped'—Ryder

At a recent demonstration by Gus Ryder's Lakeshore Swimming Club, the contestants in one race included a wheel-chair victim, a blind swimmer, a polio patient, a deaf mute and an amputation case.

But all of these handicapped people swam, and swam well, thanks to the pioneer spirit, patience and devotion of Gus Ryder, coach of Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon.

Attending a garden party in aid of the Cerebral Palsy Association at the Rutland Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, Wednesday, Ryder told guests,

"I would rather, teach a handicapped child than any other, even Marilyn or Cliff."

Ryder and his star pupil, Marilyn, made time in their busy training schedule to lend their assistance to the fund-raising garden party, chatted with young victims of cerebral palsy, delighted the youngsters with autographs and used the outdoor pool to demonstrate the fundamentals of swimming and to show how handicapped youngsters can be taught to swim.

Marilyn demonstrated three basic swimming strokes and three palsied youngsters entered the pool as Gus and Marilyn showed how the 300 handicapped members of the Lakeshore Club are taught not only to overcome their fear of the water but to become proficient swimmers.

Ryder, a Toronto customs broker, turns over any money he makes in coaching distance swimmers to his club to make it possible for more handicapped youngsters to master swimming. Any money he makes from Marilyn's Juan de Fuca Strait swim will go back into his club.

In recognition of his club's fine work with handicapped people, the Canadian Polio Foundation recently granted the club $5,000 to further its work.

Ryder pioneered the work in teaching the handicapped to swim some 25 years ago.

Now he says, "Any handicapped child or adult—cerebral palsy, polio, muscular dystrophy victims, deaf mutes, the blind, and the mentally retarded — there is a place for all of them at our Lakeshore Club."

"This way, they have no trouble with their breathing. The water should be around 80 degrees to help them relax and the swim period should be no longer than half an hour. Every safety precaution should be rigidly observed."

Ryder says, "When working with the handicapped, encouragement is the best help in teaching."

"The reward that comes when you teach a handicapped child to swim is indescribable. It is something that you feel inside you, something wonderful."

CANADA'S SWEETHEART, Marilyn Bell, won two more hearts Wednesday at the Cerebral Palsy Association garden party when she met Mayor Percy Scurrah, centre, and Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

New York Fashion Designers Set An Ultra-Feminine Look for Fall

By NONA DAMASKE

Nona

The boat was complete with skipper, who was dancer-comedian Paul Hartman, as lovable "Cap'n Andy."

He was accompanied by two girls from the chorus of "Showboat," a recent revival of the Kern-Hammerstein Broadway musical, now being produced by Guy Lombardo with a real boat, at New York's Jones Beach.

The occasion was a breakfast showing of fashions, sponsored by the Schiffli Lace and Embroidery Institute.

The Fifth Avenue Salon of Christian Dior was the setting for one of the finest fashion showings of Press Week. It was an elegant showing in exquisite surroundings . . . but I'm saving the details until I can get some pictures to illustrate his newest looks for fall.

QUICK CHANGES

Next, we returned to the Hotel Pierre, where we saw seven shows before 5 p.m., each designer presenting about 45 garments. It's really amazing how quickly the models change, each time appearing immaculately groomed.

Beauty of the models is outstanding . . . all are tall and willowy. Although we've seen a great many models, the same faces have appeared at many different shows. They are really working hard this week, and, knowing the hours of fittings that must have preceded Press Week, I wonder that they look so fresh and rested.

Tina Leser had a "fun collection" of play clothes. She feels play clothes are a state of mind, and should be worn more to suit the wearer's mood instead of what she is doing.

Her at home robes were so cosy looking — made from fine cashmere blanket cloth, the styles always free-flowing and easy.

The same blanket cloth was used in a stunning red cape with a badger-trimmed hood. A cobbler's apron of pure silk satin in pale pink, and an all-in-one overall in bright paddy green mat satin for lounging were also shown.

Ship 'n Shore blouse company was our luncheon host in the Hotel Pierre ballroom, where we watched its showing, which followed the "My Fair Lady" theme.

George Bernard Shaw was reincarnated in the bearded person of Michael Brown, who directed a cast of fair ladies in a play on modes entitled "The Well-Modulated Wardrobe."

Tattersal checks and glen plaids formed the first scene, called "Cockney Accent." It was followed by "The Old School Tie," a group of regimental striped fashions in vivid colors on fine dark-combed cotton. Next scene was "Genius at Work," which showed models accessorizing blouses from scarves, hats and jewelry displayed on a long table.

"The Fine Feminine Hand" turned the spotlight on the "star" role of fine tucked-yoke stylings with embroidery trims, seed-stitched borders and tatted edges.

COCKTAIL DRESSES

Every woman wants to be a beauty . . . so why not be one? That is Ceil Chapman's message, complete with the "how-to" formula in her 1956 fall collection. Ceil Chapman is greatly respected in the fashion world for her after-five dresses, and it was a thrill to sit and watch one after another of her feminine creations.

The "camise" look was the highlight of her collection, inspired by the loose, light weight shirt or tunic originally called the "sherte" and worn next to the skin by the early Saxons. After the Norman Invasions the name was changed to "old French camise," and it became an outer garment. It was lavishly decorated with embroidery, particularly when worn by nobility.

Each dress in Ceil Chapman's collection seemed more beautiful than the one before. Oh, how I wished I could have bought one to pack in my little suitcase!

An outstanding number was a white sheath covered with bugle beads and tear drop pearls, and there was a floating cinnamon chiffon with the well-known Ceil Chapman handkerchief hemline. Another favorite of her show was a pure silk chiffon in black, the full skirt banded in lush black fox. Dresses with hobble skrits and flying panels were featured.

A cover up is covered up with rich Schiffli embroidery in Lurex to make the most elegant coat for evening. The full-bodied velveteen coat has deep dolman sleeves and rounded collar. Now celebrating its tenth anniversary year, Lurex is the metallic yarn that will not tarnish.

As usual, there was much more to see than I have space to tell. But I do want to mention a midnight showing at the salon of rising young designer, "William J."

It was a champagne party, and the crowd was so big that many stood outside on the street, hoping to get in.

Tomorrow I'll tell you about styles by famous Anne Fogarty, shoe stylings by Capezio and other showings of such designers as Ben Reig, Anthony Blotta and Maurice Rentner.

Burgundy silk velvet with mink skirt band for a one-piece cocktail dress, designed by Tina Leser for fall, 1956. The neckline is squared with tailored straps.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Clear Cases for Crinolines Save Precious Closet Space

By PENNY SAVER

With summer come full, cotton skirts that require crinolines, and when crinolines must be kept ready for use in your closet, chances are that they take up altogether too much room. Instead of having them on hangers and poking out in all directions, try keeping them neatly rolled in crinoline and skirt bags. These bags are long, and tapered, so that once you've rolled the crinoline up to fit in the bag, it stays there neatly, ready to be used. There are hanging loops at both ends, which are quilted. These really save storage and closet space. Made of clear plastic, they're selling at 29 cents each. They were 59 cents. You can also buy a set of two in a bag for 69 cents.

Another plastic helper is the bushel basket liner. These large baskets that find their way into laundry rooms can be lined with these fitted cases, and the clothes will not become soiled. Easily put on or taken off, they cost 49 cents, and are made of patterned plastic.

More plastic, but this time solid plastic, is seen in the space-saver closet accessories being featured in one of Victoria's stores. A carry-all hanger for auto travel or home, holds three pair of trousers, a jacket and numerous ties on its four rungs. It has a rust-proof swivel hook. This one costs $1.49.

A tie and belt hanger of metal has plastic tipped hooks. Giving a cross-ladder effect are six rungs that provide 12 hanging hooks. Just hang it on the closet bar, and hang ties on the 12 rungs, and belts on the extra hook at the bottom. It takes up very little space, and costs $1.29. It will hold up to 24 ties.

A folding coat hanger that I saw has really had a new touch added. On either end of the folding shoulder bar are clothes brushes, so that when the hanger is folded, there's an easily gripped handle, and a handy brush formed of the two ends. This hanger has the hooked spaces at the shoulders so that straps can be hooked.

Again plastic! This time, tumblers that look and feel like glass, but are unbreakable. They don't conduct the heat, so you can have hot or cold beverages without worry of damage to the "glasses." They'd be wonderful on a boat, 'cause even if they were dumped onto the cabin floor, they'd be whole and sound. In two sizes, they're 35 and 45 cents.

Call me at 2-3131 for information as to the whereabouts of items mentioned here in the column.

Victoria Toastmistresses Annual Picnic Hostesses

Wednesday evening at the beachfront home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter, 5115 Cordova Bay road, the Victoria Toastmistress Club were hostesses to Arbutus Toastmistress Club at the club's annual picnic. Miss Barbara Heim was in charge of the travelling game which was played and enjoyed by guests, and Mrs. C. C. Warren led the sing-song. Highlight of the evening was the showing of slides of Mr. and Mrs. Carter's trip to Havana, Cuba, and to Florida. Chairman of picnic arrangements was Mrs. L. A. Gordon, assisted by Mrs. B. Prevost, Miss B. Hein, Mrs. T. H. Patterson and Mrs. R. Rose.

Fresh strawberries, pineapple and avocado make a beautiful fruit cup to start or end a meal. Lace the fruits with sherry wine for extra good flavor.

H. L. Hopkins officiated at the ceremony, while D. Broughton, organist, played traditional wedding music.

Matron of honor, Mrs. G. Hepburn, wore a pink silk floor-length dress with full skirt, and a short-sleeved jacket. She wore a headdress of pink blossoms, and carried blue tinted gladioli. Bridesmatron, Mrs. Jim Farndon, and bridesmaid, Miss Jean Davis, wore blue sleeveless dresses with sweetheart necklines inset with blue net. They wore blue blossom headdresses and carried bouquets of pink gladioli. Little flower girl, Lynda Scoble wore a pink dress with a net overskirt trimmed with organdy. She had a poke bonnet trimmed with pink flowers, and she carried a basket of pink carnations. Best man was Gerald Hepburn, cousin of the bride, and ushers were Jim Farndon and David Farndon, brothers of the bride.

A three-tier wedding cake topped with doves was set in a mist of tulle on the bride's table at the reception held at Mr. and Mrs. Farndon's home. Bells and white candles completed the arrangement. Hugh McLeman of Vancouver proposed the toast to his niece's future happiness.

Leaving for a honeymoon trip to Washington and Oregon, the bride wore a navy two-piece dress flecked with white, and chose navy and light blue accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

$550 GATE RECEIPTS

Marilyn Bell Helps Handicapped At Cerebral Palsy Garden Party

Marilyn Bell graciously knelt to receive a bouquet of yellow carnations from pretty, Donna Pistell, cerebral palsied wheel chair patient, at the garden party held in the young swimmer's honor, Wednesday afternoon.

Sponsored by the Cerebral Palsy Association of Lower Vancouver Island, the party drew crowds to the spacious grounds of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband's seaside home, 3150 Rutland road. Gate receipts were $550.

Although Marilyn and her coach, Gus Ryder, were the honor guests, a group of happy cerebral palsied children shared the spotlight. Marilyn stopped to chat with them and sign autographs before the party was officially opened, and, following her demonstration of strokes she will use for her strait swim, she and Gus took several of the handicapped children into the warm water pool to show how water therapy is used to aid recovery.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett welcomed guests to the affair, and Lionel O'Neill of Esquimalt Lions presented a $500 cheque to president of the Cerebral Palsy Association, James W. Mainguy, master of ceremonies, on behalf of the Esquimalt and Victoria Lions Clubs.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Hugh F. Pullen, Reeve Arthur Ash, Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrah, Reeve A. C. Wurtele, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McKinnon, Mrs. Marge Naysmith and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Muir.

Assisting with the children from the clinic were Mrs. J. Howell, Mrs. S. E. Mottishaw, Mrs. E. J. Hunter and Mrs. H. E. Blanchard, and representatives of Victoria, Oak Bay and naval fire departments.

Tea was served on the lawns by a committee of members of Women's Auxiliary to the Cerebral Palsy Association, and headed by president Mrs. Miller.

Assisting were Mrs. Vera Ashford, Mrs. N. Blanshard, Mrs. B. Buller, Mrs. T. Carson, Mrs. R. S. Conn, Mrs. J. C. Garnett, Mrs. R. Grieve, Mrs. R. Langley, Mrs. N. S. Guests at the annual garden party were arthritic and rheumatic patients.

Entertainment included several numbers by pupils from Velda Wille's dancing school, music provided by the musicians' union and donated by the union trust fund, added to the pleasant atmosphere. Mr. Pelham Richardson, violinist, was conductor, and others playing were Mrs. Madeline Till, Mrs. B. Tracy, Mr. H. Brawn, Mr. H. Bateman, Mr. D. Redden and Mr. J. MacKay.

Mr. T. L. McMaster, president of the board, and Mrs. McMaster were special guests.

Mrs. M. Carver conducted the meeting, at which four members, Mrs. M. Bremner, Mrs. V. Cain, Mrs. I. Lucat and Mrs. E. Rowley, were initiated.

Maj. Maurice Hallam, field drill team instructor, escorted by captain, Mrs. E. Lacey, and chairman, Miss I. Gordon, presented the drill team cup. Maj. Hallam received an engraved cigaret box from the team.

WE CALL IT "SPEEDY" SALMON SALAD
(BECAUSE IT DISAPPEARS SO FAST!)

Sounds like a fish story? It is! A story about a Salmon Salad that disappeared completely—eaten right up because it was brought to life with Lemon Dressing, made with Best Foods, the whole-egg Mayonnaise.

Lemon Dressing: Mix 1 cup Best Foods REAL Mayonnaise with one cup chopped celery, 2 tbsps. lemon juice, ½ tbsp. grated onion, 2 tbsps. minced parsley, dash of salt and pepper. Serve with your favorite Salmon Salad.

Best Foods REAL Mayonnaise is made from whole eggs, freshly broken, and with extra egg yolks added. It's so rich in texture—it blends perfectly with anything. Once you've used Best Foods you'll see why you can't possibly get the same results with any other dressing.

BRIDGE LESSON

— By Oswald Jacoby

Certain swindles cost nothing. If they work, well and good; if they don't, you have lost nothing but your time. A typical example was executed in the hand shown today when it was defended by Marshall Miles, of Los Angeles, in a recent regional tournament.

Opening lead—♦6

West opened the six of diamonds, and Miles played the queen from the East hand. This play would win if West had led from the king. Moreover, there was no way to stop South from winning a trick with the king of diamonds if he happened to hold that card.

South won with the king of diamonds, led a club to dummy's jack, and returned a spade towards his hand. Miles hopped up with the ace of spades and returned the deuce of diamonds.

South's bidding indicated that he held at least three diamonds, probably headed by king-jack. Miles knew that he would merely make matters easy for declarer if he cashed the ace of diamonds at an early stage. The low diamond lead might give declarer a guess or a persuasive losing finesse.

South should have had no problem. His only chance was to put up the jack of diamonds in the hope that East had the ace. If South had done so, he would have taken the rest of the tricks, and East's ace of diamonds would have gone to sleep.

As it happened, South could not believe that East had first played the queen of diamonds and had then returned a low diamond from any holding that included the ace. Hence South made the give-up play of his low diamond on the second round of that suit. Now the defenders rattled off the rest of the diamond suit setting the contract!

CLIMAX SHOWS 'FURY' AT DAWN' ON C-11, 12 AT 8.30

THE SUMMER PROGRAMS—It is stimulating to hear the reaction accorded some of the new summer programs by local viewers.

In a period noted for its innumerable repeats and second-besters it borders upon the sacrilege to hear someone remark that they are deserting old wintertime Saturday night favorite Lawrence Welk at half-time in favor of Russ Morgan and his "music in the Morgan manner."

Other shows currently reaping the kudos include Telephone Time (5.30 Sundays, Channel 11); Charlie Farrel (9 p.m. Monday, Channels 11 and 12); Vic Damone (9.30 p.m, Monday, Channel 11); Sneak Preview (9 p.m., Tuesday, Channel 4); GE Summer Originals (Tuesday, Channel 5, also at 9); Kaiser Aluminum Hour (9.30 p.m., Tuesday, Channel 4); Master Mentalist Dunninger (10.30 p.m., Wednesday, Channel 5); Arthur Murray Party (7 p.m., Thursday, Channel 11) and Quiz Kids (7.30 p.m., Thursday, Channel 11).

If this reaction is purely local in nature it is unlikely to affect the overall TV scene. But if it is found to be general throughout the United States and Canada, what then? Remember last summer? A replacement called Lawrence Welk caught the imagination of two nations and when winter arrived the only difference was the snow. It was a summer program that shot funnyman Jonathan Winters into public favor, also the gay Double Daters. Bringing the amazing Dunninger back is a certificate of his success last year when he tried out as a summer replacement.

And something else to think about—is Charlie Farrel cutting into Medic's rating? Is Damone chopping up Robert Montgomery's summer players? And is Aluminum Hour going to join Steel Hour, Climax, Studio One and Kraft, the top drama producers in the business?

'TURNED BACK CLOCK ON PROGRESS'

Fear is Motivating Force In S. African Apartheid

TORONTO (CP)—A land where extreme racial segregation is official government policy; where many white persons look to the Bible to justify attempts to maintain their dominant position; where fear drives men to suppress the black population—this is South Africa today as seen through the eyes of a Canadian newspaper man.

Ken MacTaggart of the Toronto Telegram has travelled through South Africa and written a series of stories on the racial problem there.

He describes it as a country "where fear has turned back the clock on human progress."

He tells of the efforts of the Nationalist Party government of Johannes Strijdom to put into operation its policy of apartheid—separateness — whereby some 2,643,000 whites will be able to preserve their complete control over the rich nation although outnumbered more than 3 to 1 by the 8,535,000 blacks—known as Bantu.

SUPPORT APARTHEID

"On the principle of apartheid," he writes, "has been erected a pattern of new laws far more restrictive than ever before in the state's history."

Even the remainder of South Africa's population—1,103,000 persons of mixed blood (known as coloreds) and 367,000 Asiatics (mostly Indians)—is relegated to the position of second-class citizens although the program doesn't deal nearly as harshly with them as with the Bantu.

The apartheid program is largely supported by the Afrikanders—originally Dutch settlers and formerly known as Boers — although most of the white population of South Africa supports racial segregation to some degree.

The Afrikanders farmer, MacTaggart says, feels particularly strongly about keeping the white and non-white races separate and many still base their attitude on the contention that the Old Testament says blacks and whites are not equal—that the sons of Ham were the servants of the elect.

COURTS CIRCUMVENTED

Fear as a motivating force in the drive toward apartheid is found among different sections of the white population. Many rich persons fear their status might be threatened if the Bantu were permitted increasing freedom. Afrikanders farmers fear the cost of using black workers might rise with the growth of Bantu prosperity. And most fear they would lose their identity through assimilation if opportunities for political and economic development were equal for all races.

The Strijdom government has made changes in the laws to restrict the activities of the Bantu, although it had to take a number of steps to circumvent court decisions which ruled laws invalid.

The Bantu now is restricted to certain areas and must carry passbooks while moving about. He is told what his racial status is and the onus is on him to prove otherwise, for example, that he is a colored and not a Bantu. He can be summarily banished without trial to another locality. He can be dispossessed by the state and moved elsewhere, and can appeal to the courts only after the action against him has been completed.

Many Bantu who were born and grew up in the slum areas surrounding the major cities face the prospect of being shipped off to one of the 260 Bantu reserves, although the life there is alien to them.

CLAUSE REMOVED

The problem of race relations has been an issue for more than a century, stirred up originally by Afrikanders' objections to British attempts to give the native population a measure of equality.

Daniel Malan first offered the program of apartheid in 1948 and was elected prime minister, succeeding Jan Christian Smuts. However, implementation of the program did not begin until Strijdom took over the Nationalist Party leadership and was elected in 1953.

When the Union of South Africa came into being, Britain was successful in placing in the constitution an entrenched clause guaranteeing equality of all citizens. The constitution could not be changed without approval of two-thirds of the Assembly and Senate meeting together.

Balked by a majority that was not big enough for the task, Strijdom finally increased the Senate to 89 members from 48 and succeeded in eliminating the entrenched clause.

POST-WAR CRISIS

He went ahead with his plan to return the Bantu to the reserves, saying the Bantu would gradually be granted greater opportunity there to administer their own affairs but would never be allowed to integrate in any way with whites and would never have a vote.

MacTaggart says the problem of race relations reached a crisis in South Africa after the Second World War. During the war, industry had boomed and blacks—until then mainly house and farm workers—were needed in industry. They took most of the non-skilled and semi-skilled jobs.

When the war ended, there were huge black populations in squalid shack areas around major cities and towns. They expected some political and economic recognition. White refusal to grant this became a political issue which gave birth to apartheid.

Strijdom says he is proceeding with the program while opponents maintain he is merely using it to rob non-white races of freedom and eventual self-determination. But they have offered no alternative, MacTaggart says, and are unable to agree on how a gradual program of economic integration should be carried out.

The position of the Dutch Reformed Church, with 14.9 per cent of the population as its membership, is that Christian unity cannot be enforced.

A church report said it "can by no means associate itself unreservedly with the general cry for equality and unity in the world today, as the motives and aims in this connection can certainly not always be regarded as purely Christian."

Of the church's position, MacTaggart says: "They earnestly and sincerely believe that their church is working towards the establishment of Christ's Church on earth . . . but it must not permit Christianity to be used as a basis for establishing a unity of people which would not be in Christ's faith, inasmuch as 32 per cent of the people of this country are still Bantu heathens, believing in Bantu witchcraft."

Parker Rated Chance To Upset Archie Moore

TORONTO (CP) — Morris "Whitey" Bimstein, who hardly needs an introduction in the fight game, says Toronto's James J. Parker can beat Archie Moore in their 15-round bout here next Wednesday.

Whitey, of course, could be biased. He'll be in Parker's corner.

The white-haired trainer from New York, who has been in the boxing business for more than 40 of his 60 years, arrived here early today. He will go to Parker's camp Thursday and probably take charge of the final days of training.

"Look," he said. "There are so many short-enders coming home these days that a young and hungry guy like Parker could take Moore."

"I saw Rocky Marciano knock out Moore in their title bout and I'll tell you this: Moore has a weakness. Naturally, I'm not going to go around shouting about what it is, but he definitely has a weakness although he is a tremendous fighter."

THE FRENZIED GROPE
pursues the glitter and passes up the gold

He walks when others are riding, and shaves with a goldplated axe.

Fortunately, the GROPE is a rare creature.

Wise advertisers know that the newspaper is basic—no matter what the separate virtues of other media may be.

They know that almost every person in every community across Canada reads a newspaper sometime during each day.

They also know that people have a strong allegiance to their newspapers, believe in newspapers, and shop from newspapers.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By FREEMAN KING

They went via the Mill Bay ferry and Nanaimo, going through Penticton, then on to Nelson crossing the Kootenay Lake on to Lake Louise where they made a side trip to the Columbia ice fields.

Spending a day at Banff they visited the hot springs and the ski-lift.

Just Not Cricket

LONDON (Reuters) — A Labor member of Parliament says a price ring is fixing the price of cricket balls. G. R. Chetwynd fabled a question to ask Board of Trade president Peter Thorneycroft whether he is aware of the existence of such a price ring and whether he will refer the matter to Britain's monopolies commission.

Ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of the Canadian edition, Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Carolyn Yip, age nine, of Victoria, B.C., for her question:

What Caused the Ice Age?

Canada was buried under glaciers two miles thick. Sheets of more ice covered New England, all the Great Lakes region and much of Europe. Glaciers amassed in valleys and on high mountains still further south. They gouged lakes and valleys, rounded hilltops, skuffed furrows in hard rocks and toted boulders and debris for hundreds of miles.

The tracks tell us where the glaciers went. We also know when they came. Ice Ages gripped the world four times in the past million years. Still others came and went in the dim past. We do not know for certain what caused them. Experts have theories, good ideas with reasonable evidence. So far no theory explains all the facts.

Glaciers grow where summers are too cool to melt the winter snowfall. The climate may not have been very cold. But summers must have been cool enough to leave some of winter's snow. Year by year the snow piled and packed into hard, icy glaciers. Only a 10 to 12 degrees drop in temperature could have caused the Ice Ages.

Dust and carbondioxide in the air steals the sun's heat. One theory suggests violent volcanoes threw up enough dust to cool the climate. Another suggests that the continents rose up high into cooler air. These are early theories and few experts accept them.

A very complex theory takes three different facts into account. It is called the astronomical theory because it is based on how the earth moves. The earth spins on its axis and moves around the sun. Over long cycles there are slight changes in the earth movements.

The earth's axis is not at right angles to its orbit around the sun. This makes the North Pole tip towards the sun in summer and away in winter. The slant of the sun's rays alter, giving us the seasons. The angle of earth's axis changes in cycles of 40,000 years. The slanting winter rays could be even longer during part of that long cycle.

The earth's orbit varies in cycles of 91,800 years. At certain times in that long cycle the earth is further from the warm sun. The orbit is slightly oval. This varies in cycles of 21,000 years.

All these changes are very slight, one alone could not cause an Ice Age. But at times they work together. Experts have plotted curves of the cycles. The worst has happened four times in the past 60,000 years. This fine, complex theory falls down when the rocks prove the Ice Ages came and went during the past million years.

Another theory blames the Ice Ages on the sun. More sunspots and solar cyclones could cool the earth by cooling the sun. But there are no facts to show the sun ever had such a cool spell.

There were long warm spells between the past four Ice Ages. The last began to retreat only 40,000 years ago. We may be living in one of those warm between stages. Our ancestors met and coped with those glaciers, and should they come again we can do as well, or even better, than they did.

Andy sends a Hammond Nature Atlas of America to Robert Stezer, age 9, of Atlanta, Ga., for his question:

Does a tree grow from the top or the bottom?

A tree grows at both the top and the bottom. It also grows sideways and in every other direction. Year by year it gets bigger all over. The roots grow deep and spread out further under the ground. The branches grow longer, wider and higher. New twigs sprout in any direction where there is air and sunlight.

The trunk also gets thicker with the years. The new growth is added from a section just under the bark. New wood is added in circles around the older wood. These circles of new growth are the tree rings that make the pretty grains in boards and panels of wood. New bark is added from the same section which grows the new wood. The older bark cracks to give the new bark growing space.

Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

When I was knee-high to a tadpole, I had a hero whom I worshipped the way little boys worship Hopalong Cassidy or Ted Williams.

Marilyn

But my hero was a swimmer, a wonderful guy named Cliff Lumsdon. And that's why Wednesday was one of the happiest days of my life.

When we got the news that Cliff, my old training mate, had finally defeated his Tom Park jinx, in the Atlantic City swim, I was so happy for him that I couldn't help it; I sat down and cried my eyes out.

I have always called Cliff "The Chief," my own personal nickname for him.

Soon after we heard of The Chief's photo-finish victory at Atlantic City, we talked to him by telephone. He seemed a little disappointed that he had won by only a fifth of a second, but we chased that idea out of his head. We told him that he had won it and that was the important thing, no matter how close the finish was.

When coach Gus and The Chief talked about him coming out here to help me train, I guess the people in my hotel must have thought I was going berserk.

I danced like an Indian around the lobby and I couldn't stop talking.

It will be wonderful to have Cliff training with me. Both he and his wife, Joan, are very close friends of mine and Gus knows how much I like training with The Chief.

* * *

Gus and I attended a wonderful garden party yesterday for the Cerebral Palsy children. Gus and I feel it is a privilege to be able to help handicapped children and one of these days I hope to give my feelings on 'Gus' work with them.

* * *

Yesterday Mr. Gilmour and Mr. Fraine of Eaton's kindly brought us out a TV set for Gus and a radio for my chum, Maria, and I. He also loaned us a new-style battery radio which we can have in the boat, so that all the "rock 'n' roll" won't be in the water!

* * *

On the way home from the garden party yesterday somebody pointed out a dog swimming across the bay in front of our hotel. Somebody said: "Maybe it's going to swim the Strait" and almost without thinking I replied: "Gosh, I hope it's not a female."

Everybody howled—the first time in my life I can remember people laughing at one of my jokes. Guess I cracked a funny?

Marilyn Bell

CLIFF COMING HERE

Winner of the gruelling 25-mile Atlantic City swim race Wednesday, Toronto's big Cliff Lumsdon has announced he will come to Victoria where he will join coach Gus Ryder and clubmate Marilyn Bell. Lumsdon, shown with his wife, Joan, will help Marilyn train and will also make strait bid.

Atlantic City Swim Winner Headed West

Cliff Lumsdon, clubmate of Marilyn Bell and winner of the 25-mile Atlantic City swim Wednesday, is coming to Victoria to assist in Marilyn's training and to prepare for a Juan de Fuca bid of his own.

Decision for the burly Toronto swimmer to come here was reached late Wednesday afternoon after he spoke by long distance telephone with coach Gus Ryder, who is in Victoria training Marilyn for her attempt on the Strait.

Ryder, who was overjoyed with Lumsdon's dramatic Atlantic City victory Wednesday, wants to link his two top swimmers in training for their mutual benefit.

GRUELLING SWIM

Just how soon Lumsdon will be able to come to Victoria will depend on his condition after the extremely gruelling Atlantic City swim. He will require a period of rest to recuperate from the 25-mile swim that ended in a fantastic sprint-finish, Lumsdon defeating his old nemesis, Tom Park, by the eyelash margin of half a stroke. (See story, page 8.)

Ryder's plan call for Lumsdon to aid Marilyn during her training period and then to act as a placer when she makes her attempt to become the first woman to tame the Strait. Lumsdon then would continue training for his own Strait swim.

Ryder said today, "Cliff's victory yesterday will be a great psychological boost for Marilyn. He had to beat a jinx and that will help her to conquer Juan de Fuca. Cliff's presence will help both in her training and in her actual swim."

Speaking to Lumsden by long distance telephone Wednesday, Ryder said, "Tremendous, Cliff; I'd every confidence you could do it."

Marilyn told Cliff, "I'm as tired as you are. I swam all the way with you."

On training with Lumsdon again, Marilyn said, "That'll be terrific."

Before leaving Toronto for Victoria, Ryder gave Lumsdon a two-hour briefing and three sealed letters, which were to be opened at stated times. The briefing covered all the basis aspects of the swim.

Ryder quoted Park as saying he was fully confident of making it three victories in a row.

The final letter, to be opened on the day of the race, contained two cheques, each for $5,000. One was made out to Lumsdon, the other to Park. An enclosed note from Ryder said, "Cliff, it's entirely up to you as to which cheque is cashed."

Ryder chuckled as he recounted the strategy.

"I hoped it helped—I think it did. Half a stroke in a marathon is like a photo-finish in a horse race—awfully close. But Cliff made it—a great achievement. You have to congratulate Park on a wonderful finish. He is a fine swimmer. I know Cliff is a better swimmer, though. He should beat Park by half a mile at that distance. Oh, well, he's broken the jinx at last."

Howe Confirms Tieup May Kill Gas Deadline

OTTAWA (BUP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines' promise to build the western section of the all-Canadian gas pipeline by the end of this year will be extended to cover delays in delivery of 34-inch pipe from United States rolling mills caused by the steel strike, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons today.

Howe said the guaranteed delivery of pipe depended on the absence of a "force majeure," and the U.S. steel strike was such an extraordinary obstacle.

"The contract will be subject to such delays as are caused by the strike," Howe said.

Downtown Mercury Moving Up to 100

JUNIOR-GRADE HERMIT CAUGHT IN HIGHLANDS

A 13-year-old Highlands district boy who has led police on a hide-and-seek search for 10 days was back home today.

Clifford Seiden was reported missing July 10 when he failed to return to his step-parents' home on Munns road after working at a neighboring farm. Since that time he has been spotted frequently.

Early today he turned up at the home of Mr. Chappell at Pike Lake who knew the boy was wanted and held on to him.

Slight Relief Promised Friday

Victoria's 12-day surge of sunburn weather was expected to reach a peak today, possibly reaching the 100 mark downtown—then taper off.

Temperature was slated to burst past Wednesday's official 86 and downtown 92 in a final weather-kick this afternoon.

Friday likely will drop to the warm 70s, according to weatherman William Mackie. He sees no rain. No measurable rain has fallen in Victoria since July 6.

Officials suspect cooler temperatures will result Friday, with some cloudy spells in the afternoon and evening. There will be more wind from the sea.

Threating to end the hot spell is a band of clouds moving north from California, edging into Oregon and if the same speed is maintained, appearing here in about 24 hours.

SWELL JOB

Meantime Victoria sweltered.

A man walked into the Victoria Unemployment Insurance Commission offices and applied for work as a seaman on an icebreaker.

Parks superintendent W. H. Warren said crowds at Beacon Hill Park are the biggest this year, ". . . and we're glad to have them; the park is at its best and it's the coolest place in town."

City firemen tended one grass fire at Smith's Hill reservoir. Worried residents noted pillars of smoke Wednesday evening in Central Saanich. Fire chief Victor Heal said today there was no cause for alarm—just burning off strawberry patches. It will continue for a week.

RULES TIGHTENED

No permits will be issued for fires in Sidney and provincial territories. Saanich and Esquimalt will only give permits for burning in approved incinerators. Victoria permits will be renewed daily. Oak Bay regulations are unaffected by the weather.

The hottest day, still well below the official 95.2 recorded in July, 1941, brought reports from rural areas of chickens dropping from prostration. One Prospect Lake resident claimed the mercury rose to 108.

Victoria outdid Vancouver Wednesday where an official temperature of 80 was recorded. Parksville and Nanaimo reported a high of 90. Lytton was the provincial hotspot with a top of 102.

FIRE CONCERN

Forestry officials today expressed concern for parched B.C. forests. Seventeen fires have been reported in the Vancouver forest district since Wednesday and 13 are still burning.

New outbreaks include two spot fires at Langford and six small fires in the Campbell River area.

Eleven of the new fires were reported on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway lines and were extinguished by patrolmen.

D. B. Taylor, chief forester of the south coast district, said conditions on Vancouver Island and the mainland were "extremely hazardous."

But he added, "So far I don't think it is necessary to close the woods."

BOB BEDARD
. . . plays here next week

2 B.C. Stars On Canada's Tennis Team

Three veterans of international competition and one newcomer will carry Canada's hopes to the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club's grass courts July 27, 28 and 29 in the Davis Cup tennis matches against the United States.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., Canada's top tennis star, Don Fontana of Toronto and Paul Willey of Vancouver, members of previous Davis Cup squads, and newcomer Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver were named today to meet the U.S. team.

New Prison Plan Urged by Probers

Penitentiary Terms Asked For All Sentences Over Six Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Sweeping changes in the whole field of penal corrections and paroles in Canada were proposed today to the government and Parliament by a special four-man committee.

Two of the major recommendations of the committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada are:

1. Establishment of a five-man national parole board.

2. Giving the federal government responsibility for guarding prisoners sentenced to terms of more than six months, instead of two years as at present.

Many of the committee's recommendations will require the co-operation of the provinces if they are to be implemented. The administration of justice is a provincial responsibility under the constitution.

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

Justice Minister Garson, who tabled the committee's 90-page report in the Commons, has said he plans to call the provincial attorneys-general to a conference to discuss how some of the recommendations could be implemented.

Such a conference would be held after the provinces have had a change to study the far-reaching changes suggested by the committee that was appointed in December, 1953, to study and report on the entire Canadian system of remissions.

Apart from Mr. Justice Fauteux, the committee which studied correction systems in Britain, Belgium and elsewhere was made up of: William B. Common, chief Ontario prosecutor; J. Alex Edison, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and former president of the Canadian Penal Association; and Joseph McCulley, warden of Hart House, University of Toronto, and former deputy commissioner of federal penitentiaries.

The committee also suggested amendments to the Criminal Code as it affects prison terms. For example, it proposed repeal of provisions authorizing jail terms in default of payment of fines by persons unable to pay.

This suggestion is in line with similar representations made to the government in the past by the Canadian Bar Association. The new Criminal Code, which came into effect April 1, 1955, gives judges the discretion to allow the payment of fines on the installment plan.

Perhaps the most radical change for Canada is the proposal that offenders sentenced to terms of more than six months be kept in federal penitentiaries.

Since 1869, the dividing line has been the two-year term, those serving shorter terms going to provincial jails.

At any given time, the population of Canada's nine penitentiaries and one federal training centre at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., is 5,500.

How many persons in provincial jails—the number varies between 10,000 and 11,000—would be affected by the shift in responsibility is not known. But it is conceivable the federal penitentiary population would double.

Rewrite Outdated Policies Premier Douglas Urges CCF

SASKATOON (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan told the provincial CCF party's annual convention Wednesday a revised statement of policy should be issued to conform with present-day conditions.

Mr. Douglas, head of the CCF government in Saskatchewan since 1944, expressed the hope that "a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions" would emerge from the Winnipeg convention in August of Canada's third largest political party.

"The manifesto was never thought of as an inspired document which laid down the truth for all time," he said. "It was a political document, analyzing the capitalist society of the 1930s and the evils which had followed in its wake.

"Some of these evils have been eradicated," he said. "Others remain and some new ones have been added. I think we need a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions."

Mr. Douglas also suggested in a keynote speech to the CCF Saskatchewan convention that the Social Credit party had been backed by "certain powerful business interests" in the June 20 Saskatchewan election because the "interests" realized "the Liberal party is a spent force in Saskatchewan politics."

Mr. Douglas said that the terms "capitalism" and "private ownership" are not synonymous.

The premier said that his statements did not indicate a departure from the past. He said he outlined a "co-operative commonwealth in his first speech in the legislature in 1944, and described it as a mixed economy in which public, private and co-operative enterprise would work together to bring the greatest good to the greatest number."

POLICE TUNICS STAY

A policeman's tunic feels heavy on a hot day when summery-dressed people like Mrs. E. Juba, 901 Fairfield Road are about. Constable Earl King hasn't chance to doff shirt and tie as old-timers on force did in days of choke neck tunic. Chief John Blackstock says coats will stay on. Men need suspenders to maintain weight of pistol, billy and handcuffs. They'd rather wear coats, he says.

* * *

* * *

PRAYER FOR TODAY

WE THANK THEE, O GOD, for the warmth of summer sunshine, for visits to mountains, seaside, camps and the homes of friends. May we find it a time of rebuilding, mentally, morally and physically, so that we may be led into a fuller life; through Jesus Christ. Amen.

TOPS IN TEENS NEW FEATURE

Tops in Teens, a new Times feature, focuses the summer spotlight on individual achievements of hundreds of fine young people who are typical of the Victoria and district teen-age set.

The series, which seeks to give credit to the many who go quietly about their studies and leisure time activities, will appear each day. First top teen-ager appears on Page 6.

LIFE-LIKE DUMMY DEER MOVING OLYMPIC TARGET

MELBOURNE, Australia (BUP) — A full-size dummy deer, made of light wood and painted dark brown, is nearing completion for the forthcoming Olympic Games.

The deer will be mounted on a trolley and run over tracks across an area of about 75 feet. Marksmen will shoot at it from a distance of 325 feet and will have up to four seconds to aim and fire with the minimum at two seconds.

CPR Hits Out At Boxcar Boss

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—CPR solicitor Ian Sinclair Wednesday launched a blistering attack against transport controller Roy Milner charging him among other things with failing to use his powers to force prompt return of boxcars from terminal elevators.

The CPR has maintained that what was needed in the west was not more cars but a speed-up in unloading of grain cars at terminal elevators so that they could be moved back to pick up more grain.

Mr. Milner said he did everything in his power to return the cars promptly but Mr. Sinclair said he did not. The CPR solicitor said Mr. Milner could have told the terminal elevators that unless they unloaded quickly, say within three days, he would not allow any more cars to be shipped from country points. But he did not do this, Mr. Sinclair said.

In fact, Mr. Milner had approached the Lakehead grain shipping situation as a "typical terminal elevator operator." He had asked for more cars for transit and unloading than were actually required.

"What Mr. Milner forgot was that as transport controller he was no longer a terminal operator."

Mr. Milner, 64, has some 47 years of experience in the grain trade. Before his appointment to the board of grain commissioners in 1950, he headed a number of grain companies. He was a pre-war president of the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Mr. Sinclair told the Commons agriculture committee that Mr. Milner had "confessed" he was not a transportation man and had proven to the railways that when he asked for more cars he did not know where he was going to put them.

Mr. Milner, he continued had not justified his contention that the CPR had let him down badly when he called for more boxcars last spring and his supporting argument could only be described "a confession and avoidance."

"INDEFENCIBLE POSITION"

"He confessed first that his intemperate language about the officers of the CPR was completely unjustified," said Mr. Sinclair. "He confessed he was not a transportation man and that the railways knew more abou ttheir business than he did. He attempted to avoid by inconsistency."

The CPR was surprised that Mr. Milner would try to defend "what he knows is an indefenciblé position.

Mr. Sinclair's charges were made after Mr. Milner had left the committee chamber. They followed morning statements by Mr. Milner that his powers are not operative in a practical sense; that he believed no one in Canada could handle the controller's job; that he knew when he was licked and that was why he was getting out.

Mr. Milner, controller since the federal transport powers were first invoked in 1951, is resigning at the end of 1956, though he will remain on as a member of the board of grain commissioners.

Death March Marine Faces Victims' Photos

As the fourth day of the 31-year-old junior drill instructor's trial began, the prosecution began intoducing evidence. The photogaphs, held scarcely four feet away from McKeon's unblinking gaze, are part of that evidence.

The prosecution is attempting to send McKeon to prison for six years and three months, and to have him dishonorably discharged from the Marines for an April death march in which the six men were drowned in a training exercise to "teach them discipline."

The defence contends he is more of a hero than a sinner because, although suffering from a sprained back, he plunged into the swirling waters of Ribbon creek in an effort to save his platoon when its members went into panic.

The blue-eyed, tow-headed, career Marine from Worcester, Mass., is on trial on charges of disobeying orders, cruelty to troops, manslaughter and bringing discredit to the armed services.

FIFTH COMMANDMENT VIOLATED

Catholic Church Punishment Proposed for Road Killers

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church is considering ecclesiastical punishment for persons found guilty of having caused traffic accidents, Prof Pio Ciprotti, a canon law expert, says.

Ciprotti made the statement in an interview appearing Wednesday in L'Osserbatore Della Deomenica, a magazine published in the Vatican.

Last week the magazine appealed for "Christian conscience" to halt the rising toll of traffic deaths. It declared the Fifth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," applied equally to crimes on the highways.

Ciprotti said ecclesiastical punishments could be handed drivers who avoid helping persons they injured, hide their identities, or who do not pay for damages they have caused. It could be applied to motorists driving without a licence or while intoxicated, he added.

Ciprotti declared that in the "gravest cases, such as having caused the death of a person," one could consider an interdiction from entering churches or a "personal interdiction." This is a prohibition to receive church sacraments amounting to virtual excommunication.

WINNIPEG

Domestic shippers supported oats and barley with export and U.S. buying appearing in barley. Trade reports indicated a moderate amount of barley sold to the United Kingdom.

There was export support of flax with parcel lots going to Japan. There was U.S. interest in rye and new seasonal highs were recorded.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—A break in July soybeans, down nearly eight cents at one time, upset other cereals on the board of trade today.

Losses in other grains were not large, however, and toward the finish wheat made a good recovery, going above the previous close in some contracts.

Profit-taking and wet weather in the midwest combined to send corn lower. Oats held up well, particularly the July future. Rye aslo sank on profit-taking.

The market opened with industrials a few decimal points ahead but sank lower as the morning progressed. It reached its lowest point around noon. The downward trend followed three days of solid gains which boosted the industrial and western oil indices to several all-time highs.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—Despite the pause in the Wall Street advance Wednesday stock markets continued to make headway today and many of the leading industrials showed further substantial gains. There was little to assist sentiment although a number of favorable company statements had come to hand.

Distillers were higher following the excellent results. Hire purchase shares were wanted following the increased dividend and profits by United Dominion Trust. American favorites established big gains. Engineerings, motors and aircrafts were all firm. Nuclear power shares continued in demand.

Gilt-edged securities, however, showed falls of up to ⅛. Oils displayed an easier trend but Triad was a strong market.

Comparing results for the first 24 weeks of 1956 with those for the same period last year, net income after taxes and after a substantial reserve amounted to $9,925,271—79 per cent larger than the $5,553,500 of last year.

All Forest Lands Should Be Managed By Crown—Howard

The Crown should manage B.C.'s forest lands—every single acre of them, Ronald Howard, counsel for Western Forest Management Association, told the Sloan Royal Commission on forestry today.

Answering Commissioner Sloan, Mr. Howard said: "We support public working circles and we would like to see the whole of our forests, or at least most of them, in public working circles."

He added that from the outset of forest management licences, it was agreed the requirements of the operator who is not granted a management licence would be taken care of by public working circles.

"This is another of those policies which, when put to the test, do not work out as planned," Mr. Howard said.

Toronto Swim Star Beats Park In Atlantic City Thriller

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—In a finish that looked more like a 25-yard sprint than a 25-mile marathon, Toronto's Cliff Lumsdon won his first Atlantic City swim in three attempts Wednesday as he edged defending champion Tom Park by the barest of margins.

Lumsdon, who has beaten Park in Toronto's Canadian National Exhibition swims but finished second behind the transplanted Hamilton swimmer, now a U.S. citizen, in both previous Atlantic City contests, turned the tables this time by one-fifth of a second.

The half-stroke that separated the two leaders meant a difference of $3,000 to the Toronto veteran, whose first-prize money was $5,000 compared to Park's $2,000.

Ahead of both men at the finish was Greta Anderson of Denmark, who had a 30-minute head start as did the other eight women in the field. But in elapsed time she was fourth behind the two leaders and Steve Wozniak of Buffalo.

TIDES CAUSE SLOWNESS

The winning times: Lumsdon 9.51, Park 9.51.00.2, Wozniak 10.06.30, Miss Anderson 10.17.

Despite the calm weather, both Lumsdon and Miss Anderson were well over the men's and women's records for the swim around Adsecon Island. Swim officials blamed contrary tides for the relatively slow times.

Park set the men's record, a full half-hour faster than Wednesday's winning time, in the 1954 inaugural of the race. The women's record of 10.07.28 was set the same year by Toronto's Marilyn Bell, whose impending attempt to cross the strait of Juan de Fuca kept her out of this year's race.

Most Canadian entries fared well. Muriel Ferguson of Toronto, making her first try as a professional, won $750 as the second woman to finish and was seventh in the over-all standings with a time of 11.06.30.

Right behind her was last year's women's winner, Lies Put Jamnicky of Montreal, who collected $500 for finishing third in 11.18.30. She was eighth among the 11 to finish. Ninth over-all and fourth among the women was Vivian King Thompson of Winnipeg in 11.49, good for $250.

Twenty-year-old Jean la Coursiere of Rosemount, Que., was pulled out near the finish suffering from abdominal cramps and was treated at Atlantic City Hospital. He was released later in the evening.

Damage Action In School Bus Accident Fails

A civil suit of a father who claimed damages from a bus driver and the Lake Cowichan School Board for injuries his young daughter suffered when she was run over by a school bus, was dismissed by Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane in Supreme Court Wednesday.

The justice dismissed the action on the grounds there was no evidence of negligence on the part of the bus driver and the school board.

"I'm exceedingly sorry for the little girl and the parents," said Mr. Justice Macfarlane, "but I think I must dismiss the action with costs."

The jurist noted that evidence at the trial disclosed that the child alighted from the school bus near her home. No witness saw the accident, he said, but a few moments later a woman saw the girl lying on the road just as the bus was rounding the corner.

The bus driver said he could not recall seeing the child leaving the bus stop and didn't have any knowledge of running over her.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane inferred that the little girl was running alongside the bus after the vehicle started moving.

NANAIMO (CP)—For the first time in 10 years, the Nanaimo Health Unit has recorded no cases of polio since the first of the year.

Dr. E. W. Best, health unit director, reports that other units in B.C. have recorded a low incidence of polio.

'End Blood, Guts' Says Safety Chief

Government-Guided Safety Program For General Public Asked By IWA

The most safety-conscious man in North America's forest industry claims a 66 per cent drop in forest accidents can be extended to the general public through a government-guided safety program.

John T. Atkinson, safety director for International Woodworkers of America district 1, covering all of B.C. and Alberta, led the drive against forest industry accidents during the past eight years.

He made his suggestion in an interview Wednesday and plans to meet for discussion with Labor Minister Lyle Wicks.

"All society should take a lesson from the forest industry and note that accidents can be prevented," he said.

PEOPLE'S PROGRAM

"There must be a program for the people, evolved on the principle that the only people who can prevent accidents are the people who have accidents, and it must be done as a joint co-operative effort."

His proposal for the public would include what he called the three E's of safety: education, engineering and enforcement of the law. Each by itself is of little value; all must work together, he said.

Director of such a program should be the attorney-general, said the expert. Mr. Atkinson has broached the subject to the attorney-general's department in the past.

"Every weekend, six to eight people die in B.C., whether on the highways, whether they drown, or what have you. But they die."

The IWA's safety program, based on all-union policy and adhered to by management and labor in the woods, sawmills, plywood plants, shingle factories and in log trucking, is regarded by lumber working circles and other industries across the continent as the best plan yet devised.

It has taken logging out of industry's bad-record group, where for many years it chalked up high mortality and injury figures.

Mr. Atkinson, recently chosen chairman of the IWA's International Safety Council at a meeting in Portland, will spend the next two weeks in the Victoria area on a survey and lecture tour among mills and other operations.

Accident rate for the lumber manufacturing industry along the B.C. coast is "excellent," much of this success due to emphasis and impetus of safety week, May 7-11 this year.

MISHAP-FREE

"Many Victoria sawmills have accident-free records since then," the director said.

"The entire forest industry of North America is watching B.C.'s safety progress and is desirous of obtaining similar programs in other places."

The IWA devised its safety program to fit membership along the entire coast from Alaska to Mexico.

This program, already extended beyond membership into their families, will soon include education aimed at highway safety.

If the IWA can accomplish so much within so short a time, Mr. Atkinson feels safety can be extended successfully to the public.

A result of the higher safety level in the forest industry is a saving to the industry itself. Employer assessment for workmen's compensation is lowest of all industries in B.C., yet compensation benefits for loggers and other lumber workers are highest in North America.

"We are delighted with the progress, and it will continue," said the director.

Victoria taxi firms contemplate no fare boost as planned for Vancouver next month, spokesmen said today.

Taxi fares in Vancouver will go up 20 per cent Aug. 15, the first such increase in five years. Last Victoria fare hike also was five years ago.

Minimum fare in Vancouver will be 55 cents for one-third of a mile, plus 10 cents for each additional one-third of a mile. Present minimum rate is 45 cents for two-fifths of a mile.

By the increase, drivers gain a 10 per cent wage increase on $40 a week. Rising equipment and maintenance costs forced the boost, taxicab operator's association president said.

Harmless Mine Discovered On West Coast

A mystery object beached in Barkley Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island was identified by the navy today as a harmless, badly decomposed Second World War mine.

An explosive disposal team under Lieut. L. Chaney, sent up the coast aboard a small auxiliary vessel Monday to investigate the report, returned to Esquimalt Wednesday night.

They said they opened the mine, which no longer bore any identifying marks to indicate nationality, and found it empty.

About four or five such derelict mines, relics of the Pacific war and at least 11 years old, are turned up on B.C. beaches annually. They were sown mostly by the Japanese navy.

The mine was discovered by the forestry department vessel Hemlock, which, following regulations, reported it to the Rescue Co-ordination Centre, Vancouver, which contacted the navy.

New Alpine Plants Found In North B.C.

Several new plants which horticulturists believe have never been in cultivation and may be new to science, have been discovered by a Victoria botanist serving on a joint Provincial Museum and University of British Columbia scientific expedition in northern British Columbia.

Ed Lohbrunner, Victoria nurseryman, said today Dr. Adam Szcwawinski, museum botanist, has sent him for safe keeping several new plants discovered in the alpine regions of the northwest corner of British Columbia.

He said the plants included species of saxifrage and erigeron, which he has never seen before.

"They are new to me, but whether they are new scientifically, I don't know," he said. "I've never seen them in cultivation."

He said the collection also included a specie of rhododendrum and orchid.

The expedition, headed by Charlie Guiget, museum biologist, is also composed of Dr. T. M. C. Taylor, head of the botany-biology department of UBC, and Mark Bell, a Victoria forestry student.

New Game Rules Released By A-G

The open season for hunting elk on Vancouver Island has been lengthened by 11 days over last year under the government's 1956-57 game regulations approved by Attorney-General Robert Bonner today.

The new regulation refers to game management area No. 1 which takes in Comox, Alberni, Esquimalt, Cowichan - Newcastle, Nanaimo and the Islands, Saanich, Oak Bay and Victoria city electoral district.

The open seasons for deer are essentially the same as last year, but the season on antlerless deer in the East Kootenay district has been increased in order to assist farmers and ranchers in the eastern district to prevent deer from doing damage.

NEW MAP

This year's regulations incorporate a number of game management areas, the boundaries of which are to be outlined on a map printed on the back of the new regulations.

"They will act as a somewhat clearer guide than previously provided to hunters to enable them to learn quickly what hunting seasons are in effect in every area in the province," the attorney-general said.

"The establishment of game management areas will, over a period of time, be more informative to sportsmen than the technical descriptions of regions given in the past."

Little change has been made in the season for upland game bird, but the daily bag-limit on willow and ruffed grouse has been increased from three to four.

In the Tweedsmuir Park region the open season on caribou has been increased by one week over last year. The open season on bull elk in the Princeton area has been increased, while in the East Kootenay district the antlerless season has been lengthened for protection of farmers in the area.

Little change is reported in the migratory bird regulations. In regard to upland game birds, additional areas for the hunting of Chukar partridge have been provided.

Big Ben Swims Tonight; Two More Aspirants

Conditions Right, Says Swim Trainer

Strait swimming fever increased today with the announcement Ben Laughren will tackle the Strait of Juan de Fuca tonight, and two more swimmers have joined the lineup of challengers.

Laughren, the 270-pound chef, had planned to make a new bid on Saturday but now plans to leave between midnight and 1 a.m. Friday to take advantage of what his trainer, Ove Witt, describes as "almost perfect conditions."

Laughren will leave from the Breakwater and will head in almost a straight line for Ediz Hook at Port Angeles.

Witt said this morning: "North-northeasterly winds are forecast for tonight and that is what we have been praying for on every swim. It's the best forecast we have ever had because the winds will be at Ben's back and will help him along his course. You can rest assured that if the conditions stay like this, we'll make it across."

If Laughren succeeds, he plans to go east next week to start training for a Lake Ontario swim.

TWO MORE

Billie worked out for Witt at Willows Beach Wednesday afternoon and he said, "She could be an excellent contender. We are going to try her for four or five days to test her endurance before we make plans for a swim."

Tammet came to Canada from England three years ago. He hopes to challenge the Strait in late August. He is preparing for the Strait swim with daily sessions in Semiahmoo Bay.

Saanich surveyor Bill Muir, who has become within a mile and a half of success in the best of his nine tries, still plans to swim Saturday. Details will be worked out Friday but tentative plans call for a noon departure from Saxe Point.

Four Flee Fire In Night Attire

Smoke Ejector Required In Saanich House Blaze

Fire in a home less than two blocks from the Saanich No. 1 fire hall early today forced four persons to flee in night attire.

Mrs. Ernest Stevens, 3521 Douglas, said she was wakened by smoke pouring through the house shortly after 1 a.m.

She roused her husband, then ran downstairs to a basement room where, their daughter, Linda, eight, and a friend, Carol Robinson, 12, Eaton Road, were sleeping. They fled through a basement door.

LUCKY

"They were very lucky to get out in time," a Saanich fireman said today.

The fire department was called by a passerby who ran the block and a half to the station.

Flames were confined to the living room. Mrs. Stevens said damage to furnishings amounted to about $400.

The fire is believed to have started in a chesterfield.

Firemen said the smoke was so dense they had to use a "smoke-ejector"—a big fan—to clear the house.

GAS GASP ACCIDENT

Edmond Adkin, 1641 Cedar, who told police he coasted through a stop sign trying to reach a gas station, was fined $35 in city police court today for careless driving.

Adkin collided with another car at the intersection of Moss and May. He said his car had been sputtering and was trying to reach a gas station before the tank went dry.

Magistrate Henry Hall allowed him to retain his driver's licence on the condition that he use it for business purposes only for one month.

Trucker Saves Drowning Boy

A drowning was narrowly averted in Esquimalt lagoon Wednesday night when a city truck driver dragged a 13-year-old boy to safety after he had gone down for the third time.

Vic Matthews, 928 Bay, said his mother saw the boy in trouble in the middle of the lagoon and called him. Matthews reached him just as he was going down again in about six feet of water.

Identity of the boy, believed to be from Alberta, was not learned.

Mr. Matthews said he advised the boy's party to make a report to Colwood RCMP, but police said today they knew nothing of the incident.

The boy was revived by artificial respiration applied on the beach, and the resuscitator crew was not called.

1 Year in Jail For Garage Entry

A one-year jail term was handed out in city police court today to David Guthrie, 834 Devonshire, for breaking and entering.

Guthrie, with a record of six similar offences, pleaded guilty to breaking into Horwood Bros. Garage, 1725 Government, on July 10. Nothing was stolen.

Man Sues After Fall Down Pit

Unstated and general damages are claimed in the civil suit of John Smith Falconer, 723 Field street, instituted against Cunningham Drug Stores Ltd., 1300 Douglas street, for injuries he suffered when he fell through an open pit on the sidewalk which is used by the store for the unloading of merchandise.

The suit filed in Supreme Court Registry is scheduled to come up for examination in discovery on Sept. 4—a preliminary step before the damage action can be heard in Supreme Court.

Named as a third party in the action is Heaney Cartage and Storage Ltd., which was delivering goods to the drug store at the time of the accident.

Mr. Falconer, an employee of the Federal Department of Fisheries, claims, that he was walking along Douglas street when he suddenly fell through the open pit. He alleges the pit was left unguarded and unfenced.

City Cadets Fight Heat At Vernon

Among 873 Alberta and B.C. army cadets sweating out summer camp in Vernon's 90-degree temperatures are two Indians, an Australian and a resident of Victoria's Mountain View Home for aged men.

The latter, like the others, is a bona fide member of the camp. He is 16-year-old Cadet Sgt.-Maj. S. L. Stothard, son of Mountain View Home superintendent James Stothard, regimental sergeant-major of the Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's).

Cadets are at camp to take six weeks of courses covering junior and senior leaders, instructors, driving and maintenance and signals.

SPORTS APLENTY

Because of the intense heat at midday, training is being held from 8 a.m.-noon, with the remainder of the day devoted to swimming, sports and conducted tours.

Camp will close with a military searchlight tattoo similar to the one held by B.C. Area in Vancouver in the spring. Participants will be entirely teen-aged cadets.

Shortly before cadets are due to break camp, 250 CWAC members will move in for their annual two-week camp, with instructors held over from cadet training.

Camp commandant is area commander Brig. George Kitching, who will assume a new position with Canadian army headquarters in Ottawa shortly after cadet camp closes.

'Rather Teach Handicapped'—Ryder

At a recent demonstration by Gus Ryder's Lakeshore Swimming Club, the contestants in one race included a wheel-chair victim, a blind swimmer, a polio patient, a deaf mute and an amputation case.

But all of these handicapped people swam, and swam well, thanks to the pioneer spirit, patience and devotion of Gus Ryder, coach of Marilyn Bell and Cliff Lumsdon.

Attending a garden party in aid of the Cerebral Palsy Association at the Rutland Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, Wednesday, Ryder told guests,

"I would rather teach a handicapped child than any other, even Marilyn or Cliff."

Ryder and his star pupil, Marilyn, made time in their busy training schedule to lend their assistance to the fund-raising garden party, chatted with young victims of cerebral palsy, delighted the youngsters with autographs and used the outdoor pool to demonstrate the fundamentals of swimming and to show how handicapped youngsters can be taught to swim.

Marilyn demonstrated three basic swimming strokes and three palsied youngsters entered the pool as Gus and Marilyn showed how the 300 handicapped members of the Lakeshore Club are taught not only to overcome their fear of the water but to become proficient swimmers.

Ryder, a Toronto customs broker, turns over any money he makes in coaching distance swimmers to his club to make it possible for more handicapped youngsters to master swimming. Any money he makes from Marilyn's Juan de Fuca Strait swim will go back into his club.

In recognition of his club's fine work with handicapped people, the Canadian Polio Foundation recently granted the club $5,000 to further its work.

Two weeks before coming to Victoria, Gus started a new class composed of 30 blind children.

Ryder pioneered the work in teaching the handicapped to swim some 25 years ago.

Now he says, "Any handicapped child or adult—cerebral palsy, polio, muscular dystrophy victims, deaf mutes, the blind, and the mentally retarded — there is a place for all of them at our Lakeshore Club."

"This way, they have no trouble with their breathing. The water should be around 80 degrees to help them relax and the swim period should be no longer than half an hour. Every safety precaution should be rigidly observed."

Ryder says, "When working with the handicapped, encouragement is the best help in teaching."

"The reward that comes when you teach a handicapped child to swim is indescribable. It is something that you feel inside you, something wonderful."

CANADA'S SWEETHEART, Marilyn Bell, won two more hearts Wednesday at the Cerebral Palsy Association garden party when she met Mayor Percy Scurrah, centre, and Rear-Admiral Hugh F. Pullen.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

New York Fashion Designers Set An Ultra-Feminine Look for Fall

By NONA DAMASKE

Nona

The boat was complete with skipper, who was dancer-comedian Paul Hartman, as lovable "Cap'n Andy."

He was accompanied by two girls from the chorus of "Showboat," a recent revival of the Kern-Hammerstein Broadway musical, now being produced by Guy Lombardo with a real boat, at New York's Jones Beach.

The occasion was a breakfast showing of fashions, sponsored by the Schiffli Lace and Embroidery Institute.

The Fifth Avenue Salon of Christian Dior was the setting for one of the finest fashion showings of Press Week. It was an elegant showing in exquisite surroundings . . . but I'm saving the details until I can get some pictures to illustrate his newest looks for fall.

QUICK CHANGES

Next, we returned to the Hotel Pierre, where we saw seven shows before 5 p.m., each designer presenting about 45 garments. It's really amazing how quickly the models change, each time appearing immaculately groomed.

Beauty of the models is outstanding . . . all are tall and willowy. Although we've seen a great many models, the same faces have appeared at many different shows. They are really working hard this week, and, knowing the hours of fittings that must have preceded Press Week, I wonder that they look so fresh and rested.

Tina Leser had a "fun collection" of play clothes. She feels play clothes are a state of mind, and should be worn more to suit the wearer's mood instead of what she is doing.

Her at home robes were so cosy looking — made from fine cashmere blanket cloth, the styles always free-flowing and easy.

The same blanket cloth was used in a stunning red cape with a badger-trimmed hood. A cobbler's apron of pure silk satin in pale pink, and an all-in-one overall in bright paddy green mat satin for lounging were also shown.

Ship 'n Shore blouse company was our luncheon host in the Hotel Pierre ballroom, where we watched its showing, which followed the "My Fair Lady" theme.

George Bernard Shaw was reincarnated in the bearded person of Michael Brown, who directed a cast of fair ladies in a play on modes entitled "The Well-Modulated Wardrobe."

Tattersal checks and glen plaids formed the first scene, called "Cockney Accent." It was followed by "The Old School Tie," a group of regimental striped fashions in vivid colors on fine dark-combed cotton. Next scene was "Genius at Work," which showed models accessorizing blouses from scarves, hats and jewelry displayed on a long table.

"The Fine Feminine Hand" turned the spotlight on the "star" role of fine tucked-yoke stylings with embroidery trims, seed-stitched borders and tatted edges.

COCKTAIL DRESSES

Every woman wants to be a beauty . . . so why not be one? That is Ceil Chapman's message, complete with the "how-to" formula in her 1956 fall collection. Ceil Chapman is greatly respected in the fashion world for her after-five dresses, and it was a thrill to sit and watch one after another of her feminine creations.

The "camise" look was the highlight of her collection, inspired by the loose, light weight shirt or tunic originally called the "sherte" and worn next to the skin by the early Saxons. After the Norman Invasions the name was changed to "old French camise," and it became an outer garment. It was lavishly decorated with embroidery, particularly when worn by nobility.

Each dress in Ceil Chapman's collection seemed more beautiful than the one before. Oh, how I wished I could have bought one to pack in my little suitcase!

An outstanding number was a white sheath covered with bugle beads and tear drop pearls, and there was a floating cinnamon chiffon with the well-known Ceil Chapman handkerchief hemline. Another favorite of her show was a pure silk chiffon in black, the full skirt banded in lush black fox. Dresses with hobble skrits and flying panels were featured.

A cover up is covered up with rich Schiffli embroidery in Lurex to make the most elegant coat for evening. The full-bodied velveteen coat has deep dolman sleeves and rounded collar. Now celebrating its tenth anniversary year, Lurex is the metallic yarn that will not tarnish.

As usual, there was much more to see than I have space to tell. But I do want to mention a midnight showing at the salon of rising young designer, "William J."

It was a champagne party, and the crowd was so big that many stood outside on the street, hoping to get in.

Tomorrow I'll tell you about styles by famous Anne Fogarty, shoe stylings by Capezio and other showings of such designers as Ben Reig, Anthony Blotta and Maurice Rentner.

Burgundy silk velvet with mink skirt band for a one-piece cocktail dress, designed by Tina Leser for fall, 1956. The neckline is squared with tailored straps.

SHOPPING GUIDE

By PENNY SAVER

With summer come full, cotton skirts that require crinolines, and when crinolines must be kept ready for use in your closet, chances are that they take up altogether too much room. Instead of having them on hangers and poking out in all directions, try keeping them neatly rolled in crinoline and skirt bags. These bags are long, and tapered, so that once you've rolled the crinoline up to fit in the bag, it stays there neatly, ready to be used. There are hanging loops at both ends, which are quilted. These really save storage and closet space. Made of clear plastic, they're selling at 29 cents each. They were 59 cents. You can also buy a set of two in a bag for 69 cents.

Another plastic helper is the bushel basket liner. These large baskets that find their way into laundry rooms can be lined with these fitted cases, and the clothes will not become soiled. Easily put on or taken off, they cost 49 cents, and are made of patterned plastic.

More plastic, but this time solid plastic, is seen in the space-saver closet accessories being featured in one of Victoria's stores. A carry-all hanger for auto travel or home, holds three pair of trousers, a jacket and numerous ties on its four rungs. It has a rust-proof swivel hook. This one costs $1.49.

A tie and belt hanger of metal has plastic tipped hooks. Giving a cross-ladder effect are six rungs that provide 12 hanging hooks. Just hang it on the closet bar, and hang ties on the 12 rungs, and belts on the extra hook at the bottom. It takes up very little space, and costs $1.29. It will hold up to 24 ties.

A folding coat hanger that I saw has really had a new touch added. On either end of the folding shoulder bar are clothes brushes, so that when the hanger is folded, there's an easily gripped handle, and a handy brush formed of the two ends. This hanger has the hooked spaces at the shoulders so that straps can be hooked.

Again plastic! This time, tumblers that look and feel like glass, but are unbreakable. They don't conduct the heat, so you can have hot or cold beverages without worry of damage to the "glasses." They'd be wonderful on a boat, 'cause even if they were dumped onto the cabin floor, they'd be whole and sound. In two sizes, they're 35 and 45 cents.

Call me at 2-3131 for information as to the whereabouts of items mentioned here in the column.

Victoria Toastmistresses Annual Picnic Hostesses

Wednesday evening at the beachfront home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter, 5115 Cordova Bay road, the Victoria Toastmistress Club were hostesses to Arbutus Toastmistress Club at the club's annual picnic. Miss Barbara Heim was in charge of the travelling game which was played and enjoyed by guests, and Mrs. C. C. Warren led the sing-song. Highlight of the evening was the showing of slides of Mr. and Mrs. Carter's trip to Havana, Cuba, and to Florida. Chairman of picnic arrangements was Mrs. L. A. Gordon, assisted by Mrs. B. Prevost, Miss B. Hein, Mrs. T. H. Patterson and Mrs. R. Rose.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

By FREEMAN KING

They went via the Mill Bay ferry and Nanaimo, going through Penticton, then on to Nelson crossing the Kootenay Lake on to Lake Louise where they made a side trip to the Columbia ice fields.

Spending a day at Banff they visited the hot springs and the ski-lift.

Just Not Cricket

LONDON (Reuters) — A Labor member of Parliament says a price ring is fixing the price of cricket balls. G. R. Chetwynd tabled a question to ask Board of Trade president Peter Thorneycroft whether he is aware of the existence of such a price ring and whether he will refer the matter to Britain's monopolies commission.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

What Caused the Ice Age?

Canada was buried under glaciers two miles thick. Sheets of more ice covered New England, all the Great Lakes region and much of Europe. Glaciers amassed in valleys and on high mountains still further south. They gouged lakes and valleys, rounded hilltops, skuffed furrows in hard rocks and toted boulders and debris for hundreds of miles.

The tracks tell us where the glaciers went. We also know when they came. Ice Ages gripped the world four times in the past million years. Still others came and went in the dim past. We do not know for certain what caused them. Experts have theories, good ideas with reasonable evidence. So far no theory explains all the facts.

Glaciers grow where summers are too cool to melt the winter snowfall. The climate may not have been very cold. But summers must have been cool enough to leave some of winter's snow. Year by year the snow piled and packed into hard, icy glaciers. Only a 10 to 12 degrees drop in temperature could have caused the Ice Ages.

Dust and carbondioxide in the air steals the sun's heat. One theory suggests violent volcanoes threw up enough dust to cool the climate. Another suggests that the continents rose up high into cooler air. These are early theories and few experts accept them.

A very complex theory takes three different facts into account. It is called the astronomical theory because it is based on how the earth moves. The earth spins on its axis and moves around the sun. Over long cycles there are slight changes in the earth movements.

The earth's axis is not at right angles to its orbit around the sun. This makes the North Pole tip towards the sun in summer and away in winter. The slant of the sun's rays alter, giving us the seasons. The angle of earth's axis changes in cycles of 40,000 years. The slanting winter rays could be even longer during part of that long cycle.

The earth's orbit varies in cycles of 91,800 years. At certain times in that long cycle the earth is further from the warm sun. The orbit is slightly oval. This varies in cycles of 21,000 years.

All these changes are very slight, one alone could not cause an Ice Age. But at times they work together. Experts have plotted curves of the cycles. The worst has happened four times in the past 60,000 years. This fine, complex theory falls down when the rocks prove the Ice Ages came and went during the past million years.

Another theory blames the Ice Ages on the sun. More sunspots and solar cyclones could cool the earth by cooling the sun. But there are no facts to show the sun ever had such a cool spell.

There were long warm spells between the past four Ice Ages. The last began to retreat only 40,000 years ago. We may be living in one of those warm between stages. Our ancestors met and coped with those glaciers, and should they come again we can do as well, or even better, than they did.

Andy sends a Hammond Nature Atlas of America to Robert Stezer, age 9, of Atlanta, Ga., for his question:

Does a tree grow from the top or the bottom?

A tree grows at both the top and the bottom. It also grows sideways and in every other direction. Year by year it gets bigger all over. The roots grow deep and spread out further under the ground. The branches grow longer, wider and higher. New twigs sprout in any direction where there is air and sunlight.

The trunk also gets thicker with the years. The new growth is added from a section just under the bark. New wood is added in circles around the older wood. These circles of new growth are the tree rings that make the pretty grains in boards and panels of wood. New bark is added from the same section which grows the new wood. The older bark cracks to give the new bark growing space.

Marilyn's Diary

Hello Folks!

When I was knee-high to a tadpole, I had a hero whom I worshipped the way little boys worship Hopalong Cassidy or Ted Williams.

Marilyn

But my hero was a swimmer, a wonderful guy named Cliff Lumsdon. And that's why Wednesday was one of the happiest days of my life.

When we got the news that Cliff, my old training mate, had finally defeated his Tom Park jinx, in the Atlantic City swim, I was so happy for him that I couldn't help it; I sat down and cried my eyes out.

I have always called Cliff "The Chief," my own personal nickname for him.

Soon after we heard of The Chief's photo-finish victory at Atlantic City, we talked to him by telephone. He seemed a little disappointed that he had won by only a fifth of a second, but we chased that idea out of his head. We told him that he had won it and that was the important thing, no matter how close the finish was.

When coach Gus and The Chief talked about him coming out here to help me train, I guess the people in my hotel must have thought I was going berserk.

I danced like an Indian around the lobby and I couldn't stop talking.

It will be wonderful to have Cliff training with me. Both he and his wife, Joan, are very close friends of mine and Gus knows how much I like training with The Chief.

* * *

Gus and I attended a wonderful garden party yesterday for the Cerebral Palsy children. Gus and I feel it is a privilege to be able to help handicapped children and one of these days I hope to give my feelings on Gus' work with them.

* * *

Yesterday Mr. Gilmour and Mr. Fraine of Eaton's kindly brought us out a TV set for Gus and a radio for my chum, Maria, and I. He also loaned us a new-style battery radio which we can have in the boat, so that all the "rock 'n' roll" won't be in the water!

* * *

On the way home from the garden party yesterday somebody pointed out a dog swimming across the bay in front of our hotel. Somebody said: "Maybe it's going to swim the Strait" and almost without thinking I replied: "Gosh, I hope it's not a female."

Everybody howled—the first time in my life I can remember people laughing at one of my jokes. Guess I cracked a funny?

CLIFF COMING HERE

Winner of the gruelling 25-mile Atlantic City swim race Wednesday, Toronto's big Cliff Lumsdon has announced he will come to Victoria where he will join coach Gus Ryder and clubmate Marilyn Bell. Lumsdon, shown with his wife, Joan, will help Marilyn train and will also make strait bid.

PLANS STRAIT TRY TOO

Lumsdon Coming To Help Marilyn

Cliff Lumsdon, clubmate of Marilyn Bell and winner of the 25-mile Atlantic City swim Wednesday, is coming to Victoria to assist in Marilyn's training and to prepare for a Juan de Fuca bid of his own.

Decision for the burly Toronto swimmer to come here was reached late Wednesday afternoon after he spoke by long distance telephone with coach Gus Ryder, who is in Victoria training Marilyn for her attempt on the Strait.

Ryder, who was overjoyed with Lumsdon's dramatic Atlantic City victory Wednesday, wants to link his two top swimmers in training for their mutual benefit.

GRUELLING SWIM

Just how soon Lumsdon will be able to come to Victoria will depend on his condition after the extremely gruelling Atlantic City swim. He will require a period of rest to recuperate from the 25-mile swim that ended in a fantastic sprint-finish, Lumsdon defeating his old nemesis, Tom Park, by the eyelash margin of half a stroke. (See story, page 8.)

Ryder's plan call for Lumsdon to aid Marilyn during her training period and then to act as a placer when she makes her attempt to become the first woman to tame the Strait. Lumsdon then would continue training for his own Strait swim.

Ryder said today, "Cliff's victory yesterday will be a great psychological boost for Marilyn. He had to beat a jinx and that will help her to conquer Juan de Fuca. Cliff's presence will help both in her training and in her actual swim."

Speaking to Lumsden by long distance telephone Wednesday, Ryder said, "Tremendous, Cliff; I'd every confidence you could do it."

Marilyn told Cliff, "I'm as tired as you are. I swam all the way with you."

On training with Lumsdon again, Marilyn said, "That'll be terrific."

Before leaving Toronto for Victoria, Ryder gave Lumsdon a two-hour briefing and three sealed letters, which were to be opened at stated times. The briefing covered all the basis aspects of the swim.

Ryder quoted Park as saying he was fully confident of making it three victories in a row.

The final letter, to be opened on the day of the race, contained two cheques, each for $5,000. One was made out to Lumsdon, the other to Park. An enclosed note from Ryder said, "Cliff, it's entirely up to you as to which cheque is cashed."

Ryder chuckled as he recounted the strategy.

"I hoped it helped—I think it did. Half a stroke in a marathon is like a photo-finish in a horse race—awfully close. But Cliff made it—a great achievement. You have to congratulate Park on a wonderful finish."

Howe Confirms Tieup May Kill Gas Deadline

OTTAWA (BUP) — Trans-Canada Pipe Lines' promise to build the western section of the all-Canadian gas pipeline by the end of this year will be extended to cover delays in delivery of 34-inch pipe from United States rolling mills caused by the steel strike, Trade Minister C. D. Howe told the Commons today.

Howe said the guaranteed delivery of pipe depended on the absence of a "force majeure," and the U.S. steel strike was such an extraordinary obstacle.

"The contract will be subject to such delays as are caused by the strike," Howe said.

Cooler Friday Forecast After 87.8 Sets Mark

First relief in Victoria's heat wave came this afternoon when the mercury dropped from its record 87.8 to 82.

Weatherman Bill Mackie said it was the result of a breeze off the sea and he sees cooler temperatures for Friday with the mercury in the warm 70's.

When the thermometer hit 87.8 it was the warmest July 19 on record, shattering the previous high of 86.2 registered in 1902.

Officials suspect cooler temperatures will result Friday, with some cloudy spells in the afternoon and evening. There will be more wind from the sea.

Threating to end the hot spell is a band of clouds moving north from California, edging into Oregon and if the same speed is maintained, appearing here in about 24 hours.

Meantime Victoria sweltered.

Parks superintendent W. H. Warren said crowds at Beacon Hill Park are the biggest this year, ". . . and we're glad to have them; the park is at its best and it's the coolest place in town."

City firemen tended one grass fire at Smith's Hill reservoir. Worried residents noted pillars of smoke Wednesday evening in Central Saanich. Fire chief Victor Heal said today there was no cause for alarm—just burning off strawberry patches. It will continue for a week.

RULES TIGHTENED

No permits will be issued for fires in Sidney and provincial territories. Saanich and Esquimalt will only give permits for burning in approved incinerators. Victoria permits will be renewed daily. Oak Bay regulations are unaffected by the weather.

The hottest day, still well below the official 95.2 recorded in July, 1941, brought reports from rural areas of chickens dropping from prostration. One

New Prison Plan Urged by Probers

Penitentiary Terms Asked For All Sentences Over Six Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Sweeping changes in the whole field of penal corrections and paroles in Canada were proposed today to the government and Parliament by a special four-man committee.

Two of the major recommendations of the committee headed by Mr. Justice Gerald Fauteux of the Supreme Court of Canada are:

1. Establishment of a five-man national parole board.

2. Giving the federal government responsibility for guarding prisoners sentenced to terms of more than six months, instead of two years as at present.

Many of the committee's recommendations will require the co-operation of the provinces if they are to be implemented. The administration of justice is a provincial responsibility under the constitution.

PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE

Justice Minister Garson, who tabled the committee's 90-page report in the Commons, has said he plans to call the provincial attorneys-general to a conference to discuss how some of the recommendations could be implemented.

Such a conference would be held after the provinces have had a change to study the far-reaching changes suggested by the committee that was appointed in December, 1953, to study and report on the entire Canadian system of remissions.

Apart from Mr. Justice Fauteux, the committee which studied correction systems in Britain, Belgium and elsewhere was made up of: William B. Common, chief Ontario prosecutor; J. Alex Edison, principal of Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., and former president of the Canadian Penal Association; and Joseph McCulley, warden of Hart House, University of Toronto, and former deputy commissioner of federal penitentiaries.

The committee also suggested amendments to the Criminal Code as it affects prison terms. For example, it proposed repeal of provisions authorizing jail terms in default of payment of fines by persons unable to pay.

This suggestion is in line with similar representations made to the government in the past by the Canadian Bar Association. The new Criminal Code, which came into effect April 1, 1955, gives judges the discretion to allow the payment of fines on the installment plan.

Perhaps the most radical change for Canada is the proposal that offenders sentenced to terms of more than six months be kept in federal penitentiaries.

Since 1869, the dividing line has been the two-year term, those serving shorter terms going to provincial jails.

At any given time, the population of Canada's nine penitentiaries and one federal training centre at St. Vincent de Paul, Que., is 5,500.

How many persons in provincial jails—the number varies between 10,000 and 11,000—would be affected by the shift in responsibility is not known. But it is conceivable the federal penitentiary population would double.

CPR Hits Out At Boxcar Boss

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA (CP)—CPR solicitor Ian Sinclair Wednesday launched a blistering attack against transport controller Roy Milner charging him among other things with failing to use his powers to force prompt return of boxcars from terminal elevators.

The CPR has maintained that what was needed in the west was not more cars but a speed-up in unloading of grain cars at terminal elevators so that they could be moved back to pick up more grain.

Mr. Milner said he did everything in his power to return the cars promptly but Mr. Sinclair said he did not. The CPR solicitor said Mr. Milner could have told the terminal elevators that unless they unloaded quickly, say within three days, he would not allow any more cars to be shipped from country points. But he did not do this, Mr. Sinclair said.

In fact, Mr. Milner had approached the Lakehead grain shipping situation as a "typical terminal elevator operator." He had asked for more cars for transit and unloading than were actually required.

"What Mr. Milner forgot was that as transport controller he was no longer a terminal operator."

Mr. Milner, 64, has some 47 years of experience in the grain trade. Before his appointment to the board of grain commissioners in 1950, he headed a number of grain companies. He was a pre-war president of the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Mr. Sinclair told the Commons agriculture committee that Mr. Milner had "confessed" he was not a transportation man and had proven to the railways that when he asked for more cars he did not know where he was going to put them.

Mr. Milner, he continued had not justified his contention that the CPR had let him down badly when he called for more boxcars last spring and his supporting argument could only be described "a confession and avoidance."

"INDEFENCIBLE POSITION"

"He confessed first that his intemperate language about the officers of the CPR was completely unjustified," said Mr. Sinclair. "He confessed he was not a transportation man and that the railways knew more abou ttheir business than he did. He attempted to avoid by inconsistency."

The CPR was surprised that Mr. Milner would try to defend "what he knows is an indefencible position.

Mr. Sinclair's charges were made after Mr. Milner had left the committee chamber. They followed morning statements by Mr. Milner that his powers are not operative in a practical sense; that he believed no one in Canada could handle the controller's job; that he knew when he was licked and that was why he was getting out.

Mr. Milner, controller since the federal transport powers were first invoked in 1951, is resigning at the end of 1956, though he will remain on as a member of the board of grain commissioners.

Death March Marine Faces Victims' Photos

As the fourth day of the 31-year-old junior drill instructor's trial began, the prosecution began intoducing evidence. The photogaphs, held scarcely four feet away from McKeon's unblinking gaze, are part of that evidence.

The prosecution is attempting to send McKeon to prison for six years and three months, and to have him dishonorably discharged from the Marines for an April death march in which the six men were drowned in a training exercise to "teach them discipline."

The defence contends he is more of a hero than a sinner because, although suffering from a sprained back, he plunged into the swirling waters of Ribbon creek in an effort to save his platoon when its members went into panic.

The blue-eyed, tow-headed, career Marine from Worcester, Mass., is on trial on charges of disobeying orders, cruelty to troops, manslaughter and bringing discredit to the armed services.

FIFTH COMMANDMENT VIOLATED

Catholic Church Punishment Proposed for Road Killers

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church is considering ecclesiastical punishment for persons found guilty of having caused traffic accidents, Prof Pio Ciprotti, a canon law expert, says.

Ciprotti made the statement in an interview appearing Wednesday in L'Osserbatore Della Deomenica, a magazine published in the Vatican.

Last week the magazine appealed for "Christian conscience" to halt the rising toll of traffic deaths. It declared the Fifth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," applied equally to crimes on the highways.

Ciprotti said ecclesiastical punishments could be handed drivers who avoid helping persons they injured, hide their identities, or who do not pay for damages they have caused. It could be applied to motorists driving without a licence or while intoxicated, he added.

Ciprotti declared that in the "gravest cases, such as having caused the death of a person," one could consider an interdiction from entering churches or a "personal interdiction." This is a prohibition to receive church sacraments amounting to virtual excommunication.

'TURNED BACK CLOCK ON PROGRESS'

Fear is Motivating Force In S. African Apartheid

TORONTO (CP)—A land where extreme racial segregation is official government policy; where many white persons look to the Bible to justify attempts to maintain their dominant position; where fear drives men to suppress the black population—this is South Africa today as seen through the eyes of a Canadian newspaper man.

Ken MacTaggart of the Toronto Telegram has travelled through South Africa and written a series of stories on the racial problem there.

He describes it as a country "where fear has turned back the clock on human progress."

He tells of the efforts of the Nationalist Party government of Johannes Strijdom to put into operation its policy of apartheid—separateness — whereby some 2,643,000 whites will be able to preserve their complete control over the rich nation although outnumbered more than 3 to 1 by the 8,535,000 blacks—known as Bantu.

SUPPORT APARTHEID

"On the principle of apartheid," he writes, "has been erected a pattern of new laws far more restrictive than ever before in the state's history."

Even the remainder of South Africa's population—1,103,000 persons of mixed blood (known as coloreds) and 367,000 Asiatics (mostly Indians)—is relegated to the position of second-class citizens although the program doesn't deal nearly as harshly with them as with the Bantu.

The apartheid program is largely supported by the Afrikanders—originally Dutch settlers and formerly known as Boers — although most of the white population of South Africa supports racial segregation to some degree.

The Afrikanders farmer, MacTaggart says, feels particularly strongly about keeping the white and non-white races separate and many still base their attitude on the contention that the Old Testament says blacks and whites are not equal—that the sons of Ham were the servants of the elect.

COURTS CIRCUMVENTED

Fear as a motivating force in the drive toward apartheid is found among different sections of the white population. Many rich persons fear their status might be threatened if the Bantu were permitted increasing freedom. Afrikanders farmers fear the cost of using black workers might rise with the growth of Bantu prosperity. And most fear they would lose their identity through assimilation if opportunities for political and economic development were equal for all races.

The Strijdom government has made changes in the laws to restrict the activities of the Bantu, although it had to take a number of steps to circumvent court decisions which ruled laws invalid.

The Bantu now is restricted to certain areas and must carry passbooks while moving about. He is told what his racial status is and the onus is on him to prove otherwise, for example, that he is a colored and not a Bantu. He can be summarily banished without trial to another locality. He can be dispossessed by the state and moved elsewhere, and can appeal to the courts only after the action against him has been completed.

Many Bantu who were born and grew up in the slum areas surrounding the major cities face the prospect of being shipped off to one of the 260 Bantu reserves, although the life there is alien to them.

CLAUSE REMOVED

The problem of race relations has been an issue for more than a century, stirred up originally by Afrikanders' objections to British attempts to give the native population a measure of equality.

Daniel Malan first offered the program of apartheid in 1948 and was elected prime minister, succeeding Jan Christian Smuts. However, implementation of the program did not begin until Strijdom took over the Nationalist Party leadership and was elected in 1953.

When the Union of South Africa came into being, Britain was successful in placing in the constitution an entrenched clause guaranteeing equality of all citizens. The constitution could not be changed without approval of two-thirds of the Assembly and Senate meeting together.

Balked by a majority that was not big enough for the task, Strijdom finally increased the Senate to 89 members from 48 and succeeded in eliminating the entrenched clause.

POST-WAR CRISIS

He went ahead with his plan to return the Bantu to the reserves, saying the Bantu would gradually be granted greater opportunity there to administer their own affairs but would never be allowed to integrate in any way with whites and would never have a vote.

MacTaggart says the problem of race relations reached a crisis in South Africa after the Second World War. During the war, industry had boomed and blacks—until then mainly house and farm workers—were needed in industry. They took most of the non-skilled and semi-skilled jobs.

When the war ended, there were huge black populations in squalid shack areas around major cities and towns. They expected some political and economic recognition. White refusal to grant this became a political issue which gave birth to apartheid.

Strijdom says he is proceeding with the program while opponents maintain he is merely using it to rob non-white races of freedom and eventual self-determination. But they have offered no alternative, MacTaggart says, and are unable to agree on how a gradual program of economic integration should be carried out.

The position of the Dutch Reformed Church, with 14.9 per cent of the population as its membership, is that Christian unity can not be enforced.

A church report said it "can by no means associate itself unreservedly with the general cry for equality and unity in the world today, as the motives and aims in this connection can certainly not always be regarded as purely Christian."

Of the church's position, MacTaggart says: "They earnestly and sincerely believe that their church is working towards the establishment of Christ's Church on earth . . . but it must not permit Christianity to be used as a basis for establishing a unity of people which would not be in Christ's faith, inasmuch as 32 per cent of the people of this country are still Bantu heathens, believing in Bantu witchcraft."

Rewrite Outdated Policies Premier Douglas Urges CCF

SASKATOON (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan told the provincial CCF party's annual convention Wednesday a revised statement of policy should be issued to conform with present-day conditions.

Mr. Douglas, head of the CCF government in Saskatchewan since 1944, expressed the hope that "a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions" would emerge from the Winnipeg convention in August of Canada's third largest political party.

"The manifesto was never thought of as an inspired document which laid down the truth for all time," he said. "It was a political document, analyzing the capitalist society of the 1930s and the evils which had followed in its wake.

"Some of these evils have been eradicated," he said. "Others remain and some new ones have been added. I think we need a clear-cut statement of the CCF policy in the light of present-day conditions."

Mr. Douglas also suggested in a keynote speech to the CCF Saskatchewan convention that the Social Credit party had been backed by "certain powerful business interests" in the June 20 Saskatchewan election because the "interests" realized "the Liberal party is a spent force in Saskatchewan politics."

Mr. Douglas said that the terms "capitalism" and "private ownership" are not synonymous.

The premier said that his statements did not indicate a departure from the past. He said he outlined a "co-operative commonwealth in his first speech in the legislature in 1944, and described it as a mixed economy in which public, private and co-operative enterprise would work together to bring the greatest good to the greatest number."

Victoria outdid Vancouver Wednesday where an official temperature of 80 was recorded. Parksville and Nanaimo reported a high of 90. Lytton was the provincial hotspot with a top of 102.

FIRE CONCERN

Forestry officials today expressed concern for parched B.C. forests. Seventeen fires have been reported in the Vancouver forest district since Wednesday and 13 are still burning.

New outbreaks include two spot fires at Langford and six small fires in the Campbell River area.

Eleven of the new fires were reported on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway lines and were extinguished by patrolmen.

D. B. Taylor, chief forester of the south coast district, said conditions on Vancouver Island and the mainland were "extremely hazardous."

But he added, "So far I don't think it is necessary to close the woods."

THE FRENZIED GROPE
pursues the glitter and passes up the gold

He walks when others are riding, and shaves with a goldplated axe.

Fortunately, the GROPE is a rare creature.

They also know that people have a strong allegiance to their newspapers, believe in newspapers, and shop from newspapers.

and so are all newspapers!
